This three-part series was produced for Worldnet's Hour USA to help celebrate the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution.

017-1 Federalism

Examines why the federal system of government was established and how the division of power has been implemented and changed.

017-2 The Amendments

Explains the amendment procedure and examines the major constitutional amendments.

017-3 The Presidency

019

Secretaries of State in Conference

58 minutes, produced in 1988

A discussion of contemporary foreign policy concerns by former secretaries of state. Participants include: Dean Rusk, Kennedy and Johnson administrations; Henry Kissinger, Nixon and Ford administrations; Edmund Muskie, Carter administration; Alexander Haig, Reagan administration. Topics include: the INF Treaty, SDI, U.S.-Soviet relations, and Central America.

021

Republic If You Can Keep It

40 minutes, produced in 1988

The program is narrated by Senators Dennis Deconcini (D-Ariz) and Orrin Hatch (R-Utah). It combines dramatization based on Madison's notes on the Federal Convention of 1787 with commentary and explanation by the senators. "The intense debates which led to the drafting of our remarkable Constitution are recreated here in a dramatic and enlightening fashion," says University of Virginia law professor Howard.

022

NBC News Special - A Day at the White House

60 minutes, produced in 1990

NBC special with Tom Brokaw and camera crew spending 27 Feb 1990 with the Bushes as they go through a normal day. This program provides a glimpse of the President arriving at the Oval Office; at meetings with advisors; greeting visiting foreign dignitaries; addressing receptions for the San Francisco 49ers and members of the military who fought in Panama; and Barbara Bush's visits to the local schools and nursing homes. Short interviews with Brent Scowcroft, Marlin Fitzwater, and John Sununu on their daily routines and responsibilities. Program ends with an interview with the Bushes.

024

Interpreting the Law - The Role of the Supreme Court

58 minutes, produced in 1990

There have been relatively few chief justices of the Supreme Court in American history--just 16 in over 200 years, compared to 41 presidents and thousands of congressmen. This program recounts the contributions of the chief justices to American life. It also describes what goes on in the Supreme Court, what kinds of cases it will and will not hear, and how a case gets on the Court's docket. The program traces how the Court developed, how its powers and processes evolved, and demonstrates how a landmark case moves through the Court, using as an example the 1954 decision, Brown vs. the Board of Education, which desegregated American schools.

Congress: What It Is and How It Affects You

60 minutes, produced in 1990

A detailed examination of the history, powers, and personalities of the legislative branch of the U.S. government.

026

Classics of Political Television Advertising

60 minutes, produced in 1986

The program traces the history, problems, and impact of television and political campaigning. Former Senator Eugene McCarthy introduces and explains the purpose and thrust of various genres of political advertisements. Sample spots range chronologically from the Eisenhower vs. Stevenson campaign of 1952 to the Reagan vs. Mondale campaign of 1984. Commercials made for state office are also included.

027

Series: Supreme Court Decisions that Changed the Nation

produced in 1986

The Supreme Court is charged with interpreting the U.S. Constitution, a document that has withstood the pressures from the tumultuous growth and diversity of this country over the last 200 years. The programs in this series are concise and meaningful reviews of seminal Supreme Court cases.

027-1 Brown vs. Board of Education

11:35 minutes

In 1954, the Supreme Court at last overturned the "Separate but Equal" ruling of one of its 19th century predecessors. The 1954 Court took up the question of whether segregation conformed to the guarantee of equal protection under the 14th amendment. A connected series of cases was involved, all dealing with segregation in public schools.

027-2 U.S. vs. Nixon

20 minutes

This 1974 decision demonstrates that not even the president of the country can be above the law. President Nixon did not wish the tape recordings of his participation in the Watergate affair made available to the special prosecutor. The Court's ruling forced Nixon to release them, and that release, with the famous 18 1/2 minute gap, led to his resignation.

028-2 Political Advertising of the 60's

51:48 minutes, produced in 1993

This retrospective of 56 U.S. television commercials covers the presidential campaigns of Lyndon Johnson, Barry Goldwater, Richard Nixon, Hubert Humphrey, Nelson Rockefeller and John F. Kennedy. The video also covers the senatorial campaigns of Robert Kennedy, Bob Packwood, Birch Bayh, Alan Cranston and Jacob Javits. Early political spots by Ted Kennedy, Ronald Reagan and Mark Hatfield are also included.

030

Hillary Rodham Clinton - From Wellesley to the White House

52:30 minutes, produced in 1994

This program traces the life of Hillary Rodham Clinton and surveys the diverse reactions she elicits from both the media and "people on the street."

033

Series: Framework for Democracy

26 parts, 30 minutes each episode - produced in 2002

Framework for Democracy introduces viewers to many of America's most influential leaders – elected officials, academicians, and political insiders – whose contributions have helped shape the political life of a nation. Contemporary case studies and historical insights challenge viewers to discuss and debate the changing role of government in the modern age.

Part 126: Foreign, Trade, and Domestic Policy

036

The Statue of Liberty

65 minutes, produced in 1985

Produced by Ken Burns, there are really two stories – the story of the making of a remarkable work of art, the Statue of Liberty, but also the story of the idea of liberty. For more than 100 years, the Statue of Liberty has been a symbol of hope and refuge for generations of immigrants. In this compelling portrait of the statue, Ken Burns explores both the history of America's premier symbol and the meaning of liberty itself. Featuring archival photographs, paintings and drawings, readings from actual diaries, letters, and newspapers of the day, the story of this universally admired monument is told. In interviews with Americans from all walks of life, including former New York Governor Mario Cuomo, the late Congresswoman Barbara Jordan, and the late writers James Baldwin and Jerzy Kosinski, The Statue of Liberty examines the nature of liberty and the significance of the statue to American life.

037

Series: Vote For Me: Politics in America

4 parts, produced in 1996

This is an entertaining series that looks at American culture as reflected in political campaigns across the United States. It is the perfect way for students of American politics to understand the campaign and election process, from the smallest precincts all the way to the White House.

037-1 Part 1: Politics 101 & Part 2: Making a Big Noise

Part 1: 50 minutes, part 2: 61 minutes

Part one shows what candidates do, and have done, to get voter's attention: a well-run street organization gets out the vote in Chicago; a portrait of the perfection of person-to-person campaigning in Rhode Island; a desperate California gubernatorial candidate (1994) stages a 29-hour bus trip photo-op marathon, and a New York "attack dog" consultant travels to Alabama to craft a negative ad campaign.

Part two studies what voters do, and have done, to get politicians' attention: a senior citizen's retirement haven turns out 93 per cent majorities for its candidates and the tough, revealing story of changing ethnic coalitions, where naked self-interest is the order of the day.

037-2 Part 3: Political Junkies & Part 4: The Political Education of Maggie Lauterer

Part 3: 25 minutes, part 4: 85 minutes

Part three looks at Louisiana teenagers in a mock legislature and the intense small town politics of Johnson, Rhode Island, in order to show where politicians come from.

Part four is a remarkable cinema-verite behind the scenes look at what it really takes to run for office in America. First time candidate from North Carolina, Maggie Lauterer, decides to run for Congress and has to learn how to beg for money on the phone, how to come up with 30-second policy sound bites, and how to try to run a clean campaign in the face of withering negative attacks. And we, the viewers, learn along with her, sharing in the exhilaration of her personal achievements and the pain of her setbacks.

Series: Our Federal Government

4 parts, each 30 mins, produced in 2004

The three branches of our government are explained in this four-part series. Each program presents the specific functions of the branches and how each overlaps each other. Completing this series is the program on the presidential election process.

038-1 The Presidency

This program explores the Presidency, its influence and power, and its relationship to the Legislative and Judicial Branches.

038-2 The Legislative Branch

The authors of the Constitution established Congress, the legislative branch. Congress is an arena for expressing opinions, agreeing, disagreeing, and for compromise. This program examines the role of Congress, its organization and its powers and responsibilities.

038-3 The Supreme Court

People have often had to struggle and protest to achieve their rights. The Supreme Court is the branch of government to make sure the ideal of equal justice under the law is upheld in practice.

038-4 Electing the President: The Process

From the early days of presidential elections to the Florida Bush/Gore election recount fiasco, students will see first hand how the election process operates. This program explains the oftentimes confusing popular vote versus the electoral vote.

039

Frontline: Truth, War, and Consequences

90 minutes, produced in 2003

Frontline looks at the internal debate between the State Department and the Pentagon over the shape of Iraq after the war. The 90-minute documentary features interviews with key government officials and military leaders who admit to being unprepared for the lawlessness and devastation, both physical and economic, that greeted them upon their arrival in Baghdad. "We weren't planning for the kind of situation we found," says Paul Bremer. "I think it is clear that when we got here we did not realize how devastated the economy was." Retired Army Gen. Jay Garner recalls arriving in Baghdad to find that seventeen of the 23 ministry buildings that he planned to use in his reconstruction efforts had been "deconstructed." Frontline also investigates the role of an intelligence operation at the Pentagon known as the Office of Special Plans, charged with quietly looking for evidence that would link Al Qaeda to Iraq.

Barack Obama

47 minutes, produced in 2008, DVD format

When he called himself "a skinny kid with a funny name" at the 2004 Democratic National Convention, his star was already rising. By the time he triumphed in the 2004 Illinois Senate race, he was the golden child of a Democratic party in desperate need of a charismatic leader.

041

John McCain

47 minutes, produced in 2008, DVD format

Shot down in 1967 while flying a mission over Hanoi, navy pilot John McCain became a POW for over five years. After finally returning to the U.S. and serving in the navy for another eight years, he channeled his incredible life experiences into a flourishing career in politics.

042

Survivor's Guide: Forced Labour

23 minutes, produced in 2008, DVD format

Forced Labor is part of the BBC Survivor's Guide series. We follow the personal story of Maria from Moldova who was trafficked to Russia. Lured by the promise of money that never came, she was tricked into being a slave and forced to labor as an agricultural worker under horrific conditions. Approximately 80 percent of transnational victims are women and girls. Most often they are exploited by traffickers into commercial sexual exploitation, or into slave labor. If they do manage to escape and make their way home, life for them is often far from easy. Aside from the trauma and the stigma, their families and communities don't always welcome them with open arms. If they come home empty handed or in debt they are often rejected – or worse, exploited by their own people. This usually happens outside the law and the women have little or no redress. Forced Labor looks at the plight of women who have often been abused or badly treated both abroad and at home.

Survivor's Guide: The Queen and the Carpet Girl

23 minutes, produced in 2008, DVD format
The Queen and the Carpet Girl is part of the BBC Survivor's Guide series. What does slavery look like today? In every country around the world, men, women and children are held in domestic servitude, exploited for commercial sex, coerced into work in factories and sweatshops. These are just some examples of the many forms of human trafficking.

044

Tavis Smiley Reports One on One with Hillary Clinton

produced in 2010, 60 minutes, DVD format
Tavis Smiley Reports One on One with Hillary Clinton is a candid and revealing profile of Secretary of State Hillary Clinton. It gives viewers an incisive view of the inner workings of U.S. diplomacy and international relations. Broadcaster and producer Tavis Smiley leaves his Los Angeles studio and takes his camera crew on the road with Secretary Clinton to diplomatic missions abroad, to meetings on Capitol Hill and within the State Department itself. Tavis Smiley and Secretary Clinton examine some of the country's defining moments, and analyze the major events in President Obama's first year in office. In this profile, Secretary Clinton discusses her relationship with the press, her thoughts on the surge in Afghanistan, and her views on how women are essential to improving developing economies. Although Hillary Clinton is the third woman to serve as Secretary of State, she is the first to create an ambassador-level position for the Office of Global Women's Issues and has made women's issues central to her foreign policy agenda. This documentary reflects unprecedented access to Secretary Clinton as Secretary of State. This is a biography of Hillary Clinton, but equally a visual primer on “what is a Secretary of State” and “what does a Secretary of State do.”

HISTORY & SOCIETY

103

Series: American History

15 parts, each 30 minutes, produced in 1970
Covering Colonial times through World War II, this solid historical series was produced with University of Chicago history professors John Hope Franklin and Arthur Mann as advisers.

103-2 Colonial Economy

Deals with methods used throughout the Colonies to develop a rich and meaningful economy and to alleviate the restrictions imposed by England.

103-3 Westward Expansion

Explores the progressive settlement of the West from maps, photographs, and other artwork.

103-4 Negro Slavery

103-5 The Civil War: A House Divided

103-6 Years of Reconstruction, 1865 - 1877

Examines economic, social and political problems still unsettled after the war, as well as attempts by North and South to reach reasonable peace.

103-8 America Becomes an Industrial Nation

Traces the development of America from an agrarian republic to a prosperous industrial society, bidding for world leadership.

103-9 The Rise of the Industrial Giants

103-10 Trusts and Trust Busters

103-11 The Progressives

Examines this movement and its leaders who were responding to the conditions of poverty and squalor that existed at the turn of the century.

103-12 The United States Becomes a World Power

Examines American foreign policy and expansion, showing how dramatically these efforts were affected by the sinking of the Maine in 1898.

103-13 World War I

Deals with the factors influencing America's entrance into World War I as well as its contributions to the allied victory and role in the peace settlement.

103-14 The Twenties

Traces the paradoxes of the 1920s, the boom in consumer capitalism, the issues dividing Americans, and ultimately, the stock market crash.

103-15 The New Deal

Analyzes the New Deal as a response to the massive problems of the depression.

103-16 The American People in World War II

Documents the home front in World War II; the story of millions of Americans who won a war without fighting a battle.

104

Series: Civil War

9 parts, produced in 1989

This series incorporates thousands of startling archival photographs, moving period music, and vintage newsreel footage of Civil War veterans. The war is told in the words of those who lived through it: civilians - all brought to life through actual diaries, letters, and newspaper accounts read by Sam Waterston, Julie Harris, Jason Robards, Morgan Freeman, Garrison Keillor, Jeremy Irons, Arthur Miller, Colleen Dewhurst, and many more prominent American theatre personalities.

104-1 The Cause - 1861

101 minutes

Beginning with a dramatic indictment of slavery, this first episode evokes the causes of war, from the cotton kingdom of the South to the northern abolitionists who opposed it.

104-2 The Very Bloody Affair - 1862

71 minutes

Episode two begins with the political infighting that threatened to swamp Lincoln's administration and then follows Union general George McClellan's ill-fated campaign on the Virginia peninsula, where his huge army meets a smaller but infinitely more resourceful Confederate force. During this episode we witness the battle of ironclad ships, partake of camp life, and watch slavery begin to crumble. We meet Ulysses S. Grant whose exploits come to a bloody climax at the battle of Shiloh. The episode ends with rumors of Europe's readiness to recognize the Confederacy.

104-3 Forever Free - 1862

78 minutes

Episode three charts the dramatic events that led to Lincoln's decision to set the slaves free. The episode comes to a climax in September, 1862 with Lee's invasion of Maryland. On the banks of Antietam

Creek, the bloodiest day of the war takes place, followed shortly by the brightest - the emancipation of the slaves.

104-4 Simply Murder - 1863

62 minutes

Episode begins with the nightmarish Union disaster at Fredericksburg and comes to two climaxes that spring: at Chancellorsville in May, where Lee wins his most brilliant victory but loses Stonewall Jackson; and at Vicksburg, where during the episode, we learn of fierce northern opposition to Lincoln's emancipation proclamation, the miseries of regimental life, and the increasing desperation of the Confederate home front. As the episode ends, Lee decides to invade the North again to draw Grant's forces away from Vicksburg.

104-5 The Universe of Battle - 1863

95 minutes

Opens with a dramatic account of the turning point of the war, the battle of Gettysburg. For three days, 150,000 will fight to the death in the gentle Pennsylvania countryside, culminating in Pickett's legendary charge. This extended episode then goes on to chronicle the fall of Vicksburg, the New York draft riots, the first use of black troops, and the western battles at Chickanauga and Chattanooga. The episode closes with the dedication of a new Union cemetery at Gettysburg in November, where Abraham Lincoln struggles to put to words what is happening to his people.

104-6 Valley of the Shadow of Death - 1864

70 minutes

The episode begins with a biographic comparison of Grant and Lee and then chronicles the extraordinary series of battles that pitted the two generals against each other from the wilderness to Petersburg in Virginia.

104-7 Most Hallowed Ground - 1864

72 minutes

The episode begins with the presidential campaign of 1864 that set Abraham Lincoln against his old commanding general, George McClellan. The stakes are nothing less than the survival of the Union itself, with Grant and Sherman stalled at Petersburg and Atlanta, opinion in the North has turned strongly against Lincoln and the war. But eleventh hour Union victories at Mobile Bay, Atlanta and the Shennandoah Valley tilt the election to Lincoln, and the Confederacy's last hope for independence dies.

104-8 War Is All Hell - 1865

69 minutes

Episode eight begins with William Tecumseh Sherman's brilliant march to the sea, which brings war to the heart of Georgia and the Carolinas and spells the end of the Confederacy. The episode ends in Washington where John Wilkes Booth begins to dream of vengeance for the South.

104-9 The Better Angels of Our Nature - 1865

68 minutes

This extraordinary final episode of The Civil War begins in the bittersweet aftermath of Lee's surrender and then goes on to narrate the horrendous events of five days later when, on April 14th, Lincoln is assassinated. After chronicling Lincoln's poignant funeral, the series recounts the final days of the war, the capture of John Wilkes Booth, and the fates of the series' major characters.

105

The Constitution: The Document that Gave Birth to Our Nation

23 minutes, produced in 1987

Using the backdrop of the bicentennial celebration in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania in 1987, this half-hour program examines and explains the historical significance of the constitution, its structure, function, and its current-day meaning and importance. The video includes mini-interviews with U.S. senators and congressmen present at the bicentennial, as well as excerpts from speeches by then Supreme Court justice Warren Burger and actor James Earl Jones.

106

Series: Native Americans

3 parts, each 23 minutes, produced in 1996

This series provides a unique look into the colorful day-to-day life and customs of diverse Native American cultures. They also feature authentic re-enactments of the everyday life of the Native Americans as they existed prior to their first contact with immigrating Europeans.

106-1 People of the Plains

The Plains was home to many prominent tribes, including the Blackfeet, Crow, Cheyenne, Omaha, Kiowa, Comanche, Sioux, and others. The focus of this video is the early 1800's before significant European-American intrusion into the Plains. At that time the Lakota-Sioux controlled much of South Dakota, hunting buffalo with horses that were the descendants of those left behind by the Spanish in the 1500's.

106-2 People of the Forest

This video introduces viewers to Native Americans of the Eastern Woodlands and helps to establish an affinity for their culture. The Eastern Woodlands is a unique region of dense forests, lakes and rivers. It is an area rich in natural resources and the home of many accomplished tribes: Ojibwa, Powhatan, Fox, and Seminole.

106-3 People of the Northwest Coast

The focus on the video is pre-1600, before significant European intrusion into the Northwest Coast, when the culture of the Indians revolved around clan associations and a bountiful supply of fish and marine mammals teemed in the waters.

107

The Authorized Biography of Sitting Bull by His Great Grandson

2 parts, 66 minutes and 91 minutes, produced in 2007 and 2008, DVD format, 2 copies

Sitting Bull was a leader among his people, the Lakota. He loved them. He sacrificed for them. And he was eventually killed by them. Many historians have written many things about this great leader. But no one knew him better than his family. Ernie LaPointe is Sitting Bull's only living lineal great grandson. In the two part series Ernie LaPointe for the first time reveals the oral history passed down to him from his mother, Sitting Bull's granddaughter.

107-1: The Making of a Leader

Ernie LaPointe tells how his great grandfather came to become leader of the Lakota.

107-2: Thank You Grandfather, We Still Live

Ernie LaPointe recounts how his Great Grandfather sacrificed and ultimately died for his people and their way of life. Ernie also reveals the truth behind his grandfather's murder and the struggle of his family to reclaim their true history.

108

Families of USA

30 minutes, produced in 2008, DVD format, 2 copies

Families of the World takes you on a fantastic journey to another country where you view the unique lives of two children and their families. Each DVD focuses on a different culture, their way of life, family interaction, foods and even celebrations. Join us in our visit to the countryside, cities, communities, schools and homes of two families - from breakfast to bedtime and all the fun-filled activities in between. In this documentary we meet Kyle, a five-year-old who lives on a farm in North Dakota and Kristin, a ten-year-old who lives in the city of Wilmington, Delaware. We meet their families and through their own points of view, learn about their very different lives, communities, schools and homes.

The Tuskegee Airmen

106 minutes, produced in 1995, DVD format

The Tuskegee Airmen is an inspirational and powerfully told story of some of the men among the first black aviators in the US military. The film details how the legendary African American fighter pilots of World War II, overcame racism for the right to serve their country and emerged from World War II wreathed with honor. The "Fightin' 99th" was the first squadron of Black combat fighter pilots and the forerunners of nearly 1,000 Black fliers. The film itself focuses on the struggles of a group of college-educated, patriotic African-Americans who enlist as airmen as part of a government training program in Tuskegee, Alabama, during the height of World War II.

110

Legacy

90 minutes, produced in 1999, DVD format

Legacy is the five-year long story of one family's triumphant journey out of poverty and despair. The film follows the Collins family, an African-American family in Chicago. Through the powerful and dignified voices of women from three generations of the Collins family, the inspiring story is told of how members of one family, broke free of welfare, recovered from substance abuse and escaped the specter of violence in their community. Legacy is told in five segments, representing the progress of individual family members. The stories of each of the family members represent some of the complex issues inherent in families in poverty, the working poor and distressed neighborhoods, and the devastating impact of these economic realities on people's lives.

Views of a Vanishing Frontier

26 minutes, produced in 1984

Portrait of the American frontier in 1832, as painted by the Swiss artist Karl Bodmer and described by German naturalist Prince Maximilian. The program utilizes Bodmer's paintings and Maximilian's diaries to recreate their historic expedition across the Ohio frontier to the Indian wilderness of the upper Missouri.

122

Booker T. Washington: The Life and Legacy

32 minutes, produced in 1984

Award-winning docu-drama which traces the life of Booker T. Washington, ex-slave, author, educator, and social reformer. Through location filming, reenactments, period costumes, archival photographs, and interview segments, viewers follow his career as one of the most influential educational and political leaders of his time and the founder of Tuskegee Institute.

123

Television's Vietnam - The Real Story

60 minutes, produced in 1985

Charlton Heston narrates this one hour documentary produced by Accuracy in Media (AIM), which explores the 13-part PBS documentary, Vietnam: A Television History which is, it states, "flawed by serious errors and distortions." The central thesis of this program is that the series was involved in myth-making rather than objective historical research - and its central myth is that Ho Chi Minh was a nationalist rather than an international communist.

124

Dreams of Distant Shores

30 minutes, produced in 1985

Almost half of all the people now in the United States are descended from the more than 16 million European immigrants who passed through Ellis Island on their way to freedom between 1890 and 1915. This program, narrated by actor James Whitmore, uses archival stills and film footage plus oral histories to provide a moving, in-depth story of those immigrants.

125

Remember the Dream

8 minutes, produced in 1984

Narrated by John Belle, the chief architect of the Ellis Island Restoration Project, the program uses archival footage and modern design plans to examine the history of the Island and show how the main immigrant arrival building will be restored.

132

New Negro

30 minutes, produced in 1956

In this 1956 program, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and Judge J. Waties Waring, former federal judge on the Southern Circuit, discuss the changes in the consciousness of African-Americans which led to the civil rights movement. The discussion also touches on the role of the federal judiciary, the goals and strategy of the civil rights movement, and the role of the "white liberals," particularly those in the South.

133

Assassin Years - Martin Luther King, Jr.

26 minutes, produced in 1978

Actor Kene Halliday plays the role of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. in this documentary on his life and career in fighting segregation through passive resistance. Program includes scenes from the 1955 bus boycott in Montgomery, Alabama, the Birmingham mass demonstrations and the March on Washington in 1963, the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize ceremony, the signing of the Civil Rights Bill, and the assassination of Dr. King in Memphis, Tennessee, in April 1968.

134

Legacy of a Dream

2 parts, 29 minutes, produced in 1975

This program, narrated by James Earl Ray, is a moving documentary on Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s career as leader of the peaceful, non-violent Civil Rights Movement, which changed the face of American society. Program includes excerpts from his speeches and live historical footage of protest marches and demonstrations, concluding with words by Coretta Scott King and Andrew Young about the present day status of the King legacy.

135

Series: American Experience

14 parts, produced in 1988-1997

135-1 Journey to America

60 minutes, produced in 1989

At the beginning of this century, 18 million immigrants left their homeland on foot and on horseback, spurred by the hope of a new and better life free of persecution and poverty. But first, every immigrant faced a grueling pilgrimage to freedom. Journey to America presents the personal story of the men, women, and children who came to America between 1890 and 1920 in the largest single recorded migration of human history.

135-2 The Iron Road

57:13 minutes, produced in 1990

The Iron Road tells the story of the first transcontinental railroad which was to link the eastern half of the United States to the West. The film describes the lives and work of laborers and the organizers who struggled to build 1,800 miles of track from Omaha to Sacramento during the Reconstruction years after the Civil War.

135-3 Charles Lindbergh

57:10 minutes, produced in 1990

This episode of the award-winning American Experience series profiles the controversial life of Charles Lindbergh, the first pilot to fly solo across the Atlantic.

135-4 The Kennedys

2 parts, 239 minutes, produced in 1992

The Kennedy political dynasty has already produced one president, a U.S. senator, a U.S. representative and many participants in local and state government, with more Kennedys still waiting in the wings. America's equivalent of a royal family, the Kennedys rival Roosevelts and the Adamses in reputation and power.

135-5 George Washington - The Man Who Wouldn't Be King

57:38 minutes, produced in 1992

The George Washington story Americans were told as youngsters is not the tale told here. This well-crafted documentary is no traditional tribute to an 18th century hero, a cultural and political icon more monument than man. It is, rather, an initially skeptical, ultimately respectful examination of an extremely human, supremely callow colonial who overcame a limited education and limitless ambitions to lead a new nation.

135-6 Malcolm X - Make It Plain

141:22 minutes, produced in 1994

The documentary is based on The Autobiography of Malcolm X, written by Malcolm X and Alex Haley. A charismatic and controversial figure even 28 years after his death, Malcolm X continues to be a symbol of black anger and alienation in America.

135-7 Simple Justice

134:12 minutes, produced in 1993

This docu-drama traces the early career of the late Supreme Court justice, Thurgood Marshall, and the events and court cases leading up to the passage of the historic Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka ruling in 1954. The program recreates the turbulent years in American history from the 1930's to 1954 and the human drama of the struggle for equality.

135-8 Geronimo and the Apache Resistance

60 minutes, produced in 1989

Award-winning PBS documentary tells the story of Geronimo and how he led his band of followers to resist federal authority for more than 25 years. Program mixes interviews and dramatic scenery in a portrayal of the life of the Apache people in the 19th century.

135-9 Indians, Outlaws, and Angie Debo

60 minutes, produced in 1988

Award-winning PBS documentary chronicles the story of Oklahoma historian, Angie Debo, and her heroic life and efforts in getting the true story of the Oklahoma Native Americans told.

135-10 One Woman, One Vote

110:15 minutes, produced in 1995

Traces the heroines and history of the women's suffrage movement in the U.S., from its genesis in 1848 in Seneca Falls, NY, to the final state ratification of the 19th amendment in 1920. Explains how the suffrage movement was propelled by strong-minded women who underwent indignities and horrors in their 72-year effort to get the vote. Illustrates the strengths of constitutional government, while illuminating the weakness of man.

135-11 FDR

2 parts, 254:26 minutes, produced in 1994

Explains how Franklin Delano Roosevelt, America's only four-term president, led the country to overcome the depression and World War II, just as he himself overcame polio that crippled him 11 years earlier.

Explores his marriage to second cousin Eleanor and his wartime alliances with British leader Winston Churchill and Soviet leader Josef Stalin.

135-12 Midnight Ramble

56:24 minutes, produced in 1994

The subject of this video is the birth of black cinema. This program combines interviews and rich archival footage to tell not only the early history of black film but the social history of that day.

135-13 TR, the Story of Theodore Roosevelt

4 parts, 218:41 minutes, produced in 1996

This documentary combines photographs, newspaper stories, motion pictures, family diaries and interviews with historians and family members to create a vivid and comprehensive portrait of Roosevelt, who became the 26th President of the United States at age 42.

Part I - "The Long Campaign"

(58:26 minutes.)

Part II - "The Bully Pulpit"

(52:30 minutes.)

Part III - "The Good Fight"

(58:58 minutes.)

Part IV - "Black Care"

(49:27 minutes.)

135-14 Truman

4 parts, 206:06 minutes, produced in 1997

Harry S. Truman, the 33rd president of the United States, an American original who inherited the mantle of the presidency at an hour of national crisis. This program examines both the public and private sides of this seemingly ordinary man who was assailed by bouts of insecurity, yet buttressed by his profound faith in America.

136

Series: Making Sense of the Sixties

6 parts, each 60 minutes, produced in 1990

This six hour-long series, aired on PBS, assesses the enduring impact of the sixties on family structure, the role of women, sexuality, social protest, and political empowerment in the US.

136-1 Seeds of the Sixties

Recreates American society in the fifties, with its rapidly expanding middle-class, its suburbs, its atmosphere of conservatism and conformity, its traditional sex roles, its anti-communism, and its rules. The episode also looks at one of the most important seeds of rebellion: institutionalized prejudice that kept American blacks in subservience and poverty, preventing their children from receiving the education that could help them gain equality. Finally, the program shows how television brought home these facts to northern whites.

136-3 Breaking Boundaries, Testing Limits

Depicts the sixties youth rebellion and the counterculture, when millions of young people - inspired by music, drugs, and their own adolescent drive for independence - brushed aside every social rule they had learned and substituted tenets of their own.

136-4 In a Dark Time

Focuses on 1968 - the most turbulent year of the decade. It follows three events: the escalating Vietnam War, the anti-war movement's explosive growth, and the riots and rebellions in almost all of America's major cities.

136-5 Picking Up the Pieces

Examines the nation at the end of the decade, showing how minorities of every description put to work the techniques of the civil rights and anti-war movements to win political empowerment. It examines how and why more extreme splinter groups like the Black Panthers came to be, as well as two new movements: the environmental movement and the women's movement.

136-6 Legacies of the Sixties

This episode focuses on the now familiar sixties "witnesses" - those individuals interviewed during the first five programs - as they reflect upon the sixties from today's perspective and assess the ERA's role in making America what it is in the nineties. The final episode documents that America still faces many of the sixties' issues.

140

Road to Brown

48 minutes, produced in 1990

A story of segregation and the brilliant legal assault on it which launched the civil rights movement. The program is also a long overdue tribute to a visionary, Charles Hamilton Houston, "The Man Who Killed Jim Crow." This little known black lawyer was the first black editor of the Harvard Law Review, dean of Howard University Law School, and chief counsel to the NAACP. He launched a number of precedent-setting cases, which targeted segregated education as the key to understanding the entire Jim Crow system.

141

Uncommon Images: James Van Derzee

21:44 minutes, produced in 1976

A portrait of one of the first and foremost photographers of black American life (particularly the middle class), who set up shop in Harlem at the beginning of the century and spent the next sixty years taking pictures there. His work represents a fascinating record of the public and private life of the black community.

142

Living in America: A Hundred Years of Ybor City

53:20 minutes, produced in 1987

This lively documentary celebrates the long and rich tradition of Latin culture in the U.S. in its vivid portrayal of Ybor City, Florida, a multicultural city that was founded in the 1880s, when Cuban, Spanish, and Italian immigrants arrived to work in the thriving cigar factories.

143

Trends in the 90s - The First Universal Nation

57:42 minutes, produced in 1992

Ben Wattenberg's essay on multiculturalism in the U.S. He gives examples on how it is and how it is not working and also examines the worldwide taste for American pop culture.

144

Thomas Jefferson: The Pursuit of Liberty

39:20 minutes, produced in 1991

Thomas Jefferson is remembered as the author of the Declaration of Independence, as the father of the University of Virginia, and as the third president of the United States. But his legacy is far richer. As one scholar noted, he was, of all the founding fathers, indeed of all the men of the 18th century, the most contemporary. What he wrote and what he did - about the nature of society and government, the relations of man to government, the meaning of republicanism and democracy, the significance of education and of toleration and the experimentation to democracy - is as relevant today as it was in the 18th century.

145

Series: America - A Land of Immigrants

6 parts, 21-88 minutes each

145-1 The Amish - Not To Be Modern

56:36 minutes, produced in 1985

This program is an exclusive portrait of a rarely-filmed religious community that separates itself from the modern world. Photographed over four seasons, the video captures the day-to-day life of a people who have preserved rural traditions. Rather than use a narrator to comment on this unusual life style, the Amish speak for themselves. Award-winner in the Margaret Mead Film Festival, Cine Golden Eagle, Athens International Film Festival, and many others in 1986 and 1987.

145-2 The Exiles

57:50 minutes, produced in 1989

This video tells the story of European artists, intellectuals, and scientists who emigrated to America. It chronicles the most significant rescue of oppressed intellectuals in the 20th century and highlights their far-reaching contributions to the culture and scholarship in America.

145-4 A Weave in Time: The Story of a Navajo Family 1938-1986

60:38 minutes, produced in 1987

This award-winning documentary chronicles the evolution of a Navajo family from 1938 to the present day. Noted anthropologist John Adair traveled in 1938 to the Navajo reservation in Pine Springs, Arizona with a 16mm camera. There Adair met and filmed the Burnside family, creating a visual record of Navajo life in the 1930's.

145-5 Live and Remember

28:41 minutes, produced in 1987

This program focuses on the Dakota Sioux tribe's struggle to preserve its heritage. Indian grandparents, traditionally the storytellers and cultural educators, today feel distant from their youth, who generally have adopted modern values and do not speak the Sioux tongue.

145-6 Our Totem is the Raven

21:23 minutes, produced in 1972

This short coming-of-age story produced in the seventies has been recommended by a panel of educators as still having relevancy in learning about Native American culture. 15-year-old David, an urban Indian boy, has little interest in his cultural heritage. His grandfather takes David into the forest to give him an understanding of the ways of his forefathers.

Pu'uhonua O Honaunau: A Place of Refuge

16:38 minutes, produced in 1993

Early Hawaiians celebrated a sacred refuge in an annual festival. This program shows how today's Hawaiians return to this holy place to practice the arts of their ancestors. It also shows how contemporary Hawaiians have adapted many of the historic cultural traditions into their modern lives.

147

March

34 minutes, produced in 1963, DVD format

This black and white documentary offers an in-depth view of the march on Washington, August 28, 1963. It reflects the wide-ranging participation and the sense of responsibility for a peaceful demonstration shared by both blacks and whites. The program includes preliminaries in various cities, details of Washington activities, and climactic scenes at the Lincoln Memorial including excerpts of Martin Luther King, Jr.'s speech "I have a dream."

148

Abraham Lincoln: A New Birth of Freedom

59:10 minutes, produced in 1992

This documentary, narrated by Andrew Young, leads viewers to understand how the vision and leadership of perhaps America's greatest president continue to inspire so many people today. The portrait of the 16th president is sketched with readings and narrations of Lincoln's own words, interwoven with still photographs and other archival visuals. This program illuminates both Lincoln's challenges and his pragmatic, bone-deep humanity. A number of current-day politicians, scholars and media analysts contribute to the program, including New York's governor Mario Cuomo, broadcast journalist Ted Koppel, Mary Todd Lincoln specialist Jean Baker, and Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Leon Litwack.

150

Tuskegee Airmen

22:28 minutes, produced in 1992

The African-American Tuskegee Airmen had to fight their government to join the Army Air Corps almost as hard as they fought the enemy in Europe and Asia. Accepted reluctantly as pilots in the 332nd Fighter Wing, they found they could not train, eat, march or bunk with the white military men or civilians. Congress was goaded by President Franklin Roosevelt and his wife Eleanor to let blacks fight as pilots. These young men received their training at the Tuskegee Institute, a famous black college in Alabama, and there these indifferently educated 19- and 20-year-old boys met for the first time not only black professors, but black construction contractors, black engineers, and black architects constructing the airfield. Historic footage from an Air Corps documentary is intercut with contemporary interviews with five of the former Tuskegee Airmen.

151

Frederick Douglass: When the Lion Wrote History

84:12 minutes, produced in 1994

Frederick Douglass was born Frederick Bailey in 1818, a slave. He died in 1895, in his own Washington, DC home, free, highly honored, yet ever angry. Actress Alfre Woodard narrates this profile of the black leader. Historic writings, commentary from modern-day historians, archival art and photography are used to recall his life.

152

Last Breeze of Summer

30:06 minutes, produced in 1991

It is 1957, the same year that Governor Orville Faubus defied the U.S.

Government by refusing to admit black students to the high school in Little Rock, Arkansas. In this drama, set in a small town in Texas, a bright young girl named Lizzie Davis is chosen by the African-American community, along with five other smart black teenagers, to be the first minority students in the previously all-white high school. After the violence occurs in Little Rock, all the students but Lizzie lose heart and return to the all-black high school.

153

Working Woman - No. 219

20:55 minutes, produced in 1995

Kathleen Matthews interviews First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton regarding women's health, women's roles and life in the public eye. Matthews also introduces former First Lady Rosalyn Carter, Jacqueline Kennedy's social secretary, and Betty Ford's press secretary.

154

At the River I Stand

58:20 minutes, produced in 1993

In the spring of 1968, the 1300 sanitation workers for the city of Memphis, Tennessee voted to strike for living wages. The strike was a defining episode in the civil rights struggle of the 1960s. The documentary intercuts archival footage with the recollections of surviving workers and civic leaders on both sides of the strike.

156

Goin' to Chicago

69:25 minutes, produced in 1989

Over four million African-Americans left the rural south during the first half of this century. They headed for northern cities, transforming them forever. In this documentary retired steelworkers, blues musicians, postal workers, journalists and others movingly tell their stories.

157

Series: Winds of Change

2 parts, each 57:38 minutes, produced in 1990

This program examines the struggle to maintain Indian identity and the very existence of sovereign Indian nations within the United States. Journalist Hattie Kauffman and author N. Scott Momaday take a close-up look at several Indian nations, highlighting the challenges they face and the unique solutions they have found to protect their cultures.

157-1 Matter of Choice

Viewers travel to the home of the Hopi nation, the oldest continuously inhabited community in America. The very survival of the Hopi and hundreds of other sovereign Indian nations is threatened by the exodus of their youth to the cities.

157-2 Matter of Promises

In this program viewers meet members of the Onondaga, Navajo, and Lummi tribes.

159

Series: Class of the 20th Century

9 parts, each 43-60 minutes, produced in 1991

This series chronicles the 20th century through the personal observations and memories of over 100 well-known Americans. Documentary footage, film clips and interviews are included. The host, actor Richard Dreyfuss, explains: "This isn't a history. This is how we felt about our century - as kids, as young men and women, as adults."

159-1 Overview 1901-1929

Topics discussed include Charles Lindbergh, World War I, first automobiles, early movies, Albert Einstein.

159-2 Overview 1930-1939

The Great Depression, Big Bands, Shirley Temple, the rise of Hitler.

159-5 Overview 1952-1955

159-6 Overview 1956-1961

The rise of rock-n-roll, the race for space, the pill.

159-7 Overview 1961-1963

The Beatles, the Civil Rights movement, LBJ.

159-9 Overview 1968-1969

The counter-culture movement, Woodstock, the moon landing, the assassinations of Martin Luther King and Bobby Kennedy.

159-10 Overview 1970-1976

Sesame Street, Watergate, women's rights, All in the Family TV show, the bicentennial.

159-11 Overview 1976-1990

Jimmy Carter, the 80's, Ronald Reagan, MTV.

160

America: A Land of Immigrants - The '90s, Our World in Transition: Islam in America 60 minutes, produced in 1991

Viewers meet America's mainstream Muslims in five U.S. cities, as they carry out the tenets of their religion: the five pillars of Islam. Hereditary Muslims and converts alike are shown at work, with their families and friends.

161

Series: Railroad

4 parts, each 14-36 minutes, produced in 1992

This series not only tells the story of U.S. railroads, but it is also the story of the American frontier, as it moved from the Allegheny Mountains to the Pacific Ocean.

161-1 Wild and Impractical Scheme (1800-1845)

14:26 minutes

The first railroad builders' vision was dismissed as a "wild and impractical scheme" when more than half the country remained unexplored and unmapped.

161-2 One Nation...Indivisible (1845-1865)

14:15 minutes

By now the railroads were radically changing the American way of life. The number of railroads and track located in the north also offered strategic advantages to northern armies in the Civil War.

161-3 Transcontinental (1865-1880)

15:47 minutes

The race between the Central Pacific and the Union Pacific to build the first transcontinental.

161-4 Golden Age (1880-1916)

35:59 minutes

By 1893, five different railroads had reached the Pacific Ocean and the country was covered by a spider web of rails. But by 1916, Henry Ford's model T and electric inter-urban lines were introducing fierce competition for passenger service.

162

Series: Eyes on the Prize

6 parts, 60 minutes each, produced in 1986

This award-winning series examines the history and struggles of the American Civil Rights Movement.

162-1 Awakenings (1954-1956)

Highlights two events - the 1955 lynching in Mississippi of 14-year-old Emmet Till, and the 1955-56 Montgomery, AL, boycott that forced the desegregation of public buses. Also reveals southern race relations at mid-century, and the awakenings of courage and power of black and white movement activists.

162-2 Bridge to Freedom (1965)

In 1965, in Selma, AL, thousands of blacks and whites came together in the climactic 50-mile march from Selma to Montgomery demanding the right to vote. Even as the movement began to break into factions, the voting rights act became Federal law.

162-3 Fighting Back (1957-1962)

Covers the court cases of the late 1940s that led to the 1954 Supreme Court "Brown vs. Board of Education" decision, the stories of nine black teenagers who integrated Little Rock's Central High School in 1957, and James Meredith's 1962 challenge to the white-only enrollment policy at the University of Mississippi.

162-4 No Easy Talk (1961-1963)

Documents the years when the movement embraced the strategy of mass demonstration. Albany, GA, Birmingham, AL, and Washington, DC. Reverend Martin Luther King, Jr., emerged on the national scene as an articulate and charismatic proponent of nonviolence.

162-5 Ain't Scared of Your Jails (1954-1965)

College students began to take an important role in the Civil Rights Movement in the early 1960s. The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC). The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE). They soon found themselves facing the threat of death in their attempts to break down segregation in interstate bus travel below the Mason-Dixon line.

162-6 Mississippi - Is This America? (1962-1964)

In the early 60s black citizens who had been denied the right to vote stepped forward to demand it. Many died in the struggle. Before the summer was over, a delegation of the newly formed Mississippi Freedom Party would challenge the Democratic Party Convention in Atlantic City.

163

Series: I Remember Harlem

4 parts, 60 minutes each, produced in 1980

Using rich archival footage, this series examines the social and cultural history of Harlem, a historic neighborhood in New York City.

Martin Luther King, Jr. and John F. Kennedy's assassinations, the Vietnam War, and the September 11th terrorist attacks.

165

Boycott

112 minutes, produced in 2001, DVD format

Boycott is the story of Rosa Parks and the birth of the modern era Civil Rights movement 49 years ago. When mild-mannered seamstress Rosa Parks refused to give up her bus seat to a white passenger in Montgomery, Alabama in 1955, events were set in motion that would change history. After Rosa's arrest and while waiting for her appeal, the newly created Montgomery Improvement Association decides to start a boycott of the buses. To lead them, they elect 26-year-old Martin Luther King, Jr., a new minister and recent transplant to the community. The boycott lasted 381 days and resulted in the Supreme Court ruling on November 13, 1956 that bus segregation was unconstitutional.

166

Series: Behind the Hatred

3 parts, 52 minutes each, produced in 2002

The series goes to the core of the Arab-Israeli conflict, tracing the conflict's history and going behind the rhetoric to examine the roots of this ancient conflict. Interviews with key American, Israeli, and Arab players provide viewers with historical and biographical understanding the genesis of today's current crisis.

166-1 Roots of Conflict

How do two peoples come to have a claim for the same land? Why did the first settlers immediately clash with the Arab population? This episode examines these issues and also looks at how the British, in the First World War, promised Palestine to both Jews and Arabs, and then passed the question of settlement to the newly formed United Nations.

166-2 Mortal Enemies

Through comparative biographies of Yasser Arafat and Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon, this episode examines the current battle between Israeli troops and Palestinian gunmen through the lens of the two men's antagonism. Why have their people, eight million Palestinians and six million Israelis, turned to these men as their leaders? Interviews with close comrades-in-arms, as well as enemies of both Yasser Arafat and Ariel Sharon, paint a vivid picture of these two extraordinary figures.

166-3 The Fight for Peace

From the Oslo Accords in 1993, to the Camp David Accord in 2000, to the recently proposed peace plan put forth by the Saudis, two themes provide the glue for this hour: the obstacles to peace – land issues, refugees, and Jerusalem, among others – and the hatred and violence that have been stumbling blocks to finding a peaceful solution.

167

America's New Religious Landscape

60 minutes, produced in 2002

From the public television series Religion and Ethics NewsWeekly, this documentary shows America as having the most religious diversity in the world. New immigrants to America from all over the world have brought their religious traditions. We see that there are many ways of understanding what we call God. In this video, we visit Buddhists, an African-American Muslim going to Hajj, Hasidic Jews in Crown Heights-Brooklyn, Hindus in northern Virginia, and three religious communities in the most diverse religious city in the world – Los Angeles.

168

Exploring Religious America

90 minutes, produced in 2002

How religious is America? How are Americans religious? Based on a survey of religious tolerance, beliefs, and practices in the U.S. today, Exploring Religious America presents data and video stories in four areas: religious diversity, Protestants, Catholics, and spirituality in America. Leading scholars comment on the stories videotaped across the country. Muslims and their neighbors in suburban Atlanta face the challenge of religious tolerance. Segments on mainline Protestants in Virginia, evangelical Protestants in Georgia, and African-American Protestants in Indianapolis reflect the changing influence of Protestant ideas and ideals. Irish-American and Hispanic Catholics in Chicago show the meaning of their faith. Spiritual seekers apart from organized religion, yet within it, illustrate the importance of spiritual experience in America.

169

Frontline: Muslims

120 minutes, produced in 2002

This portrait of ordinary Muslims in six countries around the world shows the diversity in how their faith intertwines with their lives, identities, and politics. Egypt: In a country threatened by severe social and economic pressures, scholars of Islam like Sheik Muawith Mabrook Abbas steadfastly counsel Muslims to abide by the tenets and practices of their faith. Nigeria: Attorney Muzzammil Sani Hanga defends the harsh penal code of Islamic (Sharia) law. He explains why tens of thousands of Nigerians support its reimplementation. America: Two different Muslim-American stories: a young New York City professional woman who, after September 11th, acted to confront anti-Muslim prejudice, and an African-American convert to Islam who tries to resolve tensions within the Muslim community, as well as between Muslims and non-Muslims. Malaysia: Stories of two activist women who are challenging traditional interpretations of Islamic text which discriminate against women. Turkey: The Turkish government has banned the wearing of hijab – the headscarf – in public. What do university women say about how this restriction affects their practice of religion, and why the government fears the hijab? Iran: A glimpse of the daily life of one of Iran's 300 ayatollahs, providing a paradox of an Iran turning toward modernity and change, while still locked in strict traditional Islam.

Series: This Far by Faith

6 parts, 60 minutes each, produced in 2003

This Far by Faith: African American Spiritual Journeys, was a co-production of Blackside Inc., which also produced Eyes on the Prize. The series includes six programs.

170-1 There is a River

The program explores the evolution of African-American religious thought, from the beliefs and rituals Africans brought to America to the influence of Christian teachings imposed on slaves in the new world. It tells the story of Sojourner Truth and Denmark Vesey.

170-2 God is a Negro

This part of the series takes place after Emancipation, as the minister and journalist Henry McNeal Turner uses the black church to engage newly freed blacks in the political realm.

170-3 Guide My Feet

This is the story of two southern migrants, born a generation apart, both seeking to bring the reality of the streets into the church. In Chicago, Thomas Dorsey, a pianist with blues singer Ma Rainey, invents gospel music.

170-4 Freedom Faith

Faith sustained black families through the oppression of segregation in the 1940s and 50s by providing the courage needed to fight Jim Crow.

170-5 Inheritors of the Faith

This program follows those who seek spiritual fulfillment outside of Christianity. It explores Islam and Yoruba, and it also explores the role of the Nation of Islam.

170-6 Rise Up and Call Their Names

In 1998, 60 people embarked on an Interfaith Pilgrimage, beginning in Massachusetts. They pray and seek to heal the country's wounds of slavery through prayer vigils at historical slave sites. The pilgrims reach Goree Island in Senegal with a stronger sense of self and purpose.

Frontline: Inside the Terrorist Network

55 minutes, produced in 2002

This documentary explores the factors that motivated those men who carried out the attacks on America on September 11th. It traces their movements across four continents, follows clues they left behind, and links their direct connection to bin Laden's terror network. How could these conspirators have plotted for years and gone basically undetected? Former New York Times Washington Bureau Chief, Hedrick Smith, connects the dots through interviews with their friends, teachers, classmates, and acquaintances. In a documentary/dramatic fashion we experience their final hours and their final minutes. Hedrick Smith's closing words capture the underlying tone of this documentary: "The enduring shock of September 11 is that we did not understand the world we live in... understand that young men with bright futures would burn with such hatred, that they would die to destroy us. They succeeded by commitment and cunning, we failed of complacency and poor imagination. They caught us by surprise because we did not dream that this could happen here. Part of what lies buried beneath the ashes at Ground Zero are America's delusions."

Searching for the Roots of 9/11, Thomas Friedman

50 minutes, produced in 2003

Thomas L. Friedman, three-time Pulitzer Prize-winning New York Times columnist, tries to answer two of the most puzzling questions to come out of 9/11: What drove young, middle-class Muslim men to give up their lives to murder almost 3,000 people? And – perhaps more importantly – why does their violent act elicit so much support from millions of ordinary Muslims throughout the world? He searches out the answers in the Middle East where the contradictory feelings of so many Muslims are laid bare: admiration for America's freedom and standard of living, combined with anger for what they see as arrogant behavior in that part of the world.

Friedman travels to Indonesia and Qatar where Muslim students bristle at the notion of increased U.S. support for Israeli violence against Palestinians, and yet they express their eagerness to enroll in American universities. Friedman, who has 25 years' experience reporting on the Muslim world, appears on Al Jazeera television debating a radical Palestinian. He then takes viewers on a walk through the streets of the very same Cairo neighborhood that produced Mohammad Atta – the leader of the September 11 attacks. Friedman then turns to a different path – to one where change is afoot. In the tiny Arab nation of Bahrain where a free, parliamentary election is underway, he meets the editors of an independent newspaper that's free from government censorship. Friedman's investigative work reveals that there is a true and undeniable yearning for freedom in the Muslim world. He then raises the question: Could it be that the most profound effects of 9/11 will be felt – not in America – but in the Middle East, where the shock waves released since those two towers went down have jump started an urgent conversation about reconciling Islam with democracy?

Series: Millennium Evenings at the White House

7 parts, 64 - 118 minutes each, produced in 1999

Millennium Evenings at the White House are a series of lectures and cultural showcases hosted by the President Clinton and First Lady that highlight creativity and inventiveness through our ideas, art, and scientific discoveries. Millennium evenings are a program of the White House Millennium Council, which the President and Mrs. Clinton created in 1997 to harness the millennial spirit and commemorate this unique time in history. White House Millennium programs reflect the theme, “Honor the Past – Imagine the Future,” and invite all Americans to participate in activities that celebrate our democracy, strengthen our communities, and give lasting gifts to the future.

173-1 Professor Bernard Bailyn: The Living Past - Commitments for the Future

64 minutes

In this part of the series, the President and Mrs. Clinton host American historian, Bernard Bailyn, Professor Emeritus at Harvard University, and winner of the Pulitzer and Bancroft prizes for his book Ideological Origins of the American Revolution. Professor Bailyn discusses the core American ideas that shaped the nation and which we must continue to pursue in the next century and the new millennium.

173-2 Stephen Hawking: Imagination and Change – Science in the Next Millennium

71 minutes

In this Millennium Evening, the President and Mrs. Clinton host Stephen Hawking, the Lucasian Professor of Mathematics at Cambridge University, UK. Professor Hawking draws on his deep understanding of the laws of science and their effect on human life to lead a discussion on how scientific and technological advancements will shape and be shaped by human knowledge.

173-3 Poets Laureate: The American Voice in Poetry

87 minutes

In this part of the series, the President and Mrs. Clinton host present and past Poets Laureate of the United States: Robert Pinsky, Robert Hass, and Rita Dove. The Poets Laureate recite excerpts of famous poems and speak about the evolution of poetry through the century. The President, Mrs. Clinton, and members of the audience read their favorite poems and participate in the discussion.

173-4 Jazz: An Expression of Democracy

88 minutes

In this part of the series, the President and Mrs. Clinton host renowned jazz musicians, scholars, and a seventeen-piece jazz band. The discussion is led by Grammy award-winning artist Wynton Marsalis and celebrated jazz pianist Marian McPartland, who explain how the development of this unique American art form reflects the make-up of our democracy. Throughout the discussion are musical selections by artists such as Diane Reeves and Billy Taylor.

173-5 Professors Natalie Zemon Davis and Martin Marty: The Meaning of the Millennium

102 minutes

In this episode the President and Mrs. Clinton host two distinguished scholars, Professor Natalie Zemon and Professor Martin Marty who examine the meaning of the millennium from both historical and religious perspectives. This discussion offers a better understanding of how humankind makes meaning of life through time, and how we shape our future by the acts and commitments we make today.

173-6 Women as Citizens: Vital Voices through the Century

118 minutes

In this part of the series, the President and Mrs. Clinton host a discussion on the history of American women in the civic life in the 20th century. The Evening’s discussion focuses on three themes: women as volunteers and reformers, women’s struggle for rights, and women in public and civic life. The President and Mrs. Clinton are joined by Professor Nancy Cott, Professor Alice Kessler-Harris, and Dr. Ruth Simmons.

173-7 Professor Elie Wiesel: The Perils of Indifference: Lessons from a Violent Century

113 minutes

In this Millennium Evening, the President and Mrs. Clinton host Nobel Peace Prize winner and Boston University Professor Elie Wiesel. Mr. Wiesel, who has used his talents as an author and teacher to promote action against indifference to human atrocities and suffering, leads this discussion with President and Mrs. Clinton to help us understand the need for individuals to exercise their moral conscience in the face of injustice.

Wright Brothers' Flying Machine

60 minutes, produced in 2003

For the centennial of the first airplane flight, the celebrated NOVA science series produced a dramatic investigation of the Wrights' amazing achievement. To bring the Wrights' technological genius to life, this program features authentic replicas of their brilliantly conceived craft being used in test flights. The climax is the construction and maiden flight of a replica Wright 1911 Model B, the pinnacle of the brothers' accomplishments and the world's first practical passenger-carrying flying machine, with all the essential technical features of today's aircraft. In recreating the Wrights' journey of discovery, this program begins where the brothers did: with gliders for testing the efficiency of wing shapes to produce lift, along with a three-axis control system to keep the plane balanced in flight.

175

Scottsboro: An American Tragedy

90 minutes, produced in 2001

In March 1931, a freight train crowded with homeless and jobless hoboes left Chattanooga, Tennessee, bound for points west. A short time after it crossed into Alabama, a fight erupted between two groups of hoboes—one black and one white. The train was stopped by an armed posse in the tiny town of Paint Rock, Alabama. Before anyone knew what had happened, two white women stepped from the shadows of a boxcar to make a shocking accusation: nine black teenagers aboard the train had raped them. So began one of the most significant legal fights of the twentieth century. Before it was over, the Scottsboro affair – so named for the little Alabama town where the nine were put on trial for their lives - would divide Americans along racial, political, and geographic lines. It would draw North and South into their sharpest conflict since the Civil War, yield two momentous Supreme Court decisions, and give birth to the Civil Rights Movement. But for all its historical significance, the Scottsboro story is, at its core, a riveting drama about the struggles of nine innocent young men for their lives and a cautionary tale about using human beings as fodder for political causes. Viewers travel from the jails of Alabama to the salons of New York and meet a fascinating gallery of characters: the lead defendant - a defiant black man who refuses to lay down before the power of Alabama; the defense lawyer who comes to see in the case echoes of the discrimination he has felt himself; the accuser - a poor white woman who finds in her lie a route to respectability; and a Southern judge who risks the scorn of his beloved state to deliver justice.

176

Frontline: Trail of a Terrorist

55 minutes, produced in 2002

On Dec. 14, 1999, a 32-year-old Algerian named Ahmed Ressay was detained at the U.S./Canadian border when an alert customs agent became suspicious of Ressay's hesitant answers to her questions. When the trunk of his car was opened, agents discovered a powerful bomb and a plot for a millennium attack on America. Ressay said nothing at his trial but, facing 130 years in prison, decided to testify against an accomplice. His chilling testimony reveals his motives, his methods, and his connection to an Algerian terrorist group that had already carried out bombings in Europe. Ressay described his training at the Osama bin Laden camps in Afghanistan, where he became skilled in urban warfare, sabotage, and covert operations.

177

Clear and Present Danger: The Evolution of Modern Terrorism

54 minutes, produced in 2002

An encyclopedic examination of modern terrorism, beginning with its roots, its historical evolution to the present, unveiling the organizational structure of terrorist groups today. The program investigates the global war against terrorism, revealing the inner workings of intelligence and government agencies. It examines various deterrence mechanisms, border and immigration safeguards, monetary controls, and the measures that can be undertaken to curtail terrorist groups and heal the wounds that have ripped our world apart.

178

Wide Angle: Dying to Leave

60 minutes, produced in 2004

Dying to Leave explores the current worldwide boom in illicit migration and human trafficking. Focusing on eight major stories and shot in 13 countries, from Argentina to Australia and Mexico to Moldova, Dying to Leave examines the circumstances that drove these migrants from their homes, describes the difficulties involved in their journeys, and reveals what awaits them in their new world. Every year, an estimated two to four million people are shipped in containers, shepherded through sewage pipes, secreted in car chassis, and ferried across frigid waters. Others travel on legitimate carriers but with forged documents. Each year 600,000 – 800,000 men, women, and children are trafficked across international borders. Victims are forced into prostitution, labor, child soldiering, and many forms of involuntary and/or domestic servitude. By listening to the voices of those who pulled up their roots and risked all, the film puts a human face on what might otherwise be seen as statistical, overwhelming and remote, and reveals the circumstances that drove these migrants from their homes.

Series: America beyond the Color Line

4 parts, 60 minutes each, produced in 2004

One hundred years ago, the celebrated African-American intellectual W.E.B. DuBois, famously identified the problem of the 20th century as “the problem of the color line.” America has come a long way since DuBois made his prophecy, and the politics of race have undergone dramatic change. So – a century later – what are the new challenges faced by black Americans?

179-1 Tape A: The Black Belt

Henry Louis Gates Jr. travels to Memphis, Birmingham and Atlanta - once the battlegrounds on which civil rights were won for black southerners in the 1950s and 60s. The very cities from which African Americans fled during the era of legal segregation are today drawing them back by the tens of thousands. But how much have these cities really changed since the civil rights era? Interviewees include Morgan Freeman and Maya Angelou.

Tape B: Streets of Heaven

Gates goes inside the notorious housing projects in Chicago's South Side - the Robert Taylor and the Ida B. Wells - to find out from the people who live there what life is like for America's "underclass." "What happened to the city of refuge my father's generation sought in the North;

North where 'the streets of Heaven were paved with gold'?" wonders Gates. Caught up in a culture of criminality, poverty and despair, is there any hope for the fifth of black Americans who have been left behind?

179-2 Tape A: Ebony Towers

The existence of a small group of African Americans at the heart of the political establishment and at the pinnacle of corporate America is something that, just two decades ago, seemed unimaginable. How did they get there and what is the significance of their success? Beginning at Harvard, Gates travels to Washington, DC, and New York to ask if this new black power elite represents genuine progress for black America as a whole. Interviewees include Colin Powell, Russell Simmons, Vernon Jordan, Franklin Raines and the first African-American chess grandmaster in history, Maurice Ashley.

Tape B: Black Hollywood

Does the unprecedented success of African-American actors at the last Oscars signal a genuine shift in the way race operates in the movie business? In the final episode, Gates asks whether Hollywood is institutionally racist or whether it is becoming increasingly color-blind in pursuit of the box office dollar. Interviewees include Chris Tucker, Samuel L. Jackson, Alicia Keys, Quincy Jones, Nia Long, Don Cheadle and John Singleton.

180

NBC News Dateline: Children for Sale

39:38 minutes, produced in 2004

NBC's Dateline went undercover with a human rights group to expose, on video, sex trafficking in Cambodia. Interviewed for this program, Secretary of State Powell was asked why sex trafficking had become such an important issue. His response: "Because it's the worst kind of human exploitation imaginable... it is a sin against humanity, and it is a horrendous crime."

182

Series: Biography of America

26 parts, 30 minutes each, produced in 2000

This is a university level course in American history taught by Donald L. Miller, professor of history at Lafayette College. Supporting Miller is an impressive team of historians who gather to discuss the particular material to be covered. The series is amply illustrated with paintings, still photographs, motion picture footage, maps, and editorial cartoons.

182-1 Part 1: New World Encounters

Part 2: English Settlement

Part 1 New World Encounters: Professor Miller introduces Biography of America and its team of historians. The program looks at the beginnings of America.

Part 2 English Settlement: As the American character begins to take shape in the early seventeenth century, English settlements develop in New England and Virginia. Their personalities are dramatically different. Professor Miller explores the origins of values, cultures, and economies that have collided in the North and South throughout the American story.

182-2 Part 3: Growth and Empire

Part 4: The Coming of Independence

Part 3 Growth and Empire: As the merchant class grows in the North, the economies of southern colonies are built on the shoulders of the slave trade. Professor Miller brings the American story to 1763.

Part 4 The Coming of Independence: Professor Maier tells the story of how the English-loving colonist transforms into the freedom-loving American rebel. The luminaries of the early days of the Republic – Washington, Jefferson, Adams – are featured.

182-3 Part 5: A New System of Government

Part 6: Westward Expansion

Part 5 A New System of Government: After the War for Independence, the struggle for a new system of government begins. Professor Maier looks at the creation of the Constitution of the United States.

Part 6 Westward Expansion: At the dawn of the nineteenth century, the size of the United States doubles with the Louisiana Purchase. The Mississippi River becomes the country's central artery and Jefferson's vision of an Empire of Liberty begins to take shape. The historians examine the consequences of the Louisiana Purchase.

182-4 Part 7: The Rise of Capitalism

Part 8: The Reform Impulse

Part 7 The Rise of Capitalism: Individual enterprise merges with technological innovation to launch the Commercial Revolution – the seedbed of American industry.

Part 8 The Reform Impulse: The Industrial Revolution has its dark side, and the tumultuous events of the period touch off intense and often thrilling reform movements: the abolitionist movement, the women's movement, and a powerful wave of religious fervor.

182-5 Part 9: Slavery

Part 10: The Coming of the Civil War

Part 9 Slavery: While the North develops an industrial economy and culture, the South develops a slave culture and economy, and the great rift between the regions becomes unbreachable.

Part 10 The Coming of the Civil War: Simmering regional differences ignite an all-out crisis in the 1850s.

182-6 Part 11: The Civil War

Part 12: Reconstruction

Part 11 The Civil War: As the Civil War rages, all eyes turn to Vicksburg, where limited war becomes total war. Professor Miller looks at the ferocity of the fighting, at Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation and at the bitter legacy of the battle – and the war.

Part 12 Reconstruction: With the assassination of President Lincoln, one sad chapter of American history comes to a close. In the fatigue and cynicism of the Civil War's aftermath, Reconstructionism becomes a promise unfulfilled.

182-7 Part 13: America at the Centennial

Part 14: Industrial Supremacy

Part 13 America at the Centennial: As America celebrates its centennial, 5 million people descend on Philadelphia to celebrate America's technological achievements, but some of the early principles of the Republic remain unrealized.

Part 14 Industrial Supremacy: Steel and stockyards are featured in this program as the mighty engine of industrialism thunders forward. The story of the American Industrial Revolution in New York and Chicago continues. We look at the lives of Andrew Carnegie, Gustavus Swift, and the countless workers in the packinghouses and in the factories.

182-8 Part 15: The New City

Part 16: The West

Part 15 The New City: Professor Miller explores the tension between the messy vitality of cities that grow on their own and those where orderly growth is planned.

Part 16 The West: Railroads and ranchers, rabble-rousers and racists populate America's frontiers, and Native Americans are displaced from their homelands. Feminists gain a foothold in their fight for the right to vote, while farmers organize and the Populist Party appears on the American political landscape.

182-9 Part 17: Capital and Labor

Part 18: TR and Wilson

Part 17 Capital and Labor: The making of money pits laborers against the forces of capital as the twentieth century opens.

Part 18 TR and Wilson: Professor Brinkley compares the presidencies of Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson – the Warrior and the Minister – in the first decades of the twentieth century.

182-10 Part 19: A Vital Progressivism

Part 20: The Twenties

Part 19 A Vital Progressivism: In a discussion with Professors Scharff and Miller, the struggles of Native Americans, Asian Americans, and African Americans are placed in the context of the traditional white Progressive movement.

Part 20 The Twenties: The Roaring Twenties take to the road in Henry Ford's landscape-altering invention – the Model T. Ford's moving assembly line and the emergence of a consumer culture are explored.

182-11 Part 21: FDR and the Depression

Part 22: World War II

Part 21: FDR and the Depression: Brinkley paints a picture of America during the Depression and chronicles some of Roosevelt's programmatic and personal efforts to help the country through its worst economic crisis. First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt is at FDR's side.

Part 22: World War II: America is enveloped in total war, from mobilization on the home front to a scorching air war in Europe.

182-12 Part 23: The Fifties

Part 24: The Sixties

Part 23 The Fifties: World War II is fought to its bitter end in the Pacific and the world lives with the legacy of its final moment: the atomic bomb. The GI Bill, Levittown, civil rights, the Cold War, and rock'n'roll are discussed.

Part 24 The Sixties: Stories of the Civil Rights movement along with stories of the Vietnam War and Watergate create a portrait of the decade. Lyndon Johnson emerges as a pivotal character.

182-13 Part 25: Contemporary History

Part 26: The Redemptive Imagination

Part 25 Contemporary History: The entire team of historians joins Professor Miller in examining the last quarter of the twentieth century. The discussion is of the period – and of the difficulty of examining contemporary history with true historical perspective.

Part 26 The Redemptive Imagination: Storytelling and its power forges with memory to become the foundation of history. Novelists Charles Johnson (Middle Passage), Arthur Golden (Memoirs of a Geisha), and Esmeralda Santiago (America's Dream) discuss the intersection of history and story. Kurt Vonnegut, Jr., closes the series with a reflection on the power of the human imagination.

Series: Liberty

6 parts, 60 minutes each, produced in 1998

Liberty is a six-part series of one-hour documentaries for PBS. It describes how the American Revolution evolved and how a new nation was born in the aftermath of the Revolutionary War using actors, Revolutionary era scholars, and eyewitness accounts of the time.

183-1 The Reluctant Revolutionaries 1763-1774

In 1763, the capital of America is London, George Washington is lobbying for a post in the British army, and no one thinks of Boston harbor when they hear about tea parties. In a dozen years, the colonies are on the brink of rebellion. What brings this country near war with England?

183-2 Blows Must Decide 1774-1776

A total break from Great Britain remains hard for Americans to imagine, even after shots are fired at Lexington and Concord. Words push matters "Over the Edge" in 1776. Common Sense argues that it is the natural right of men to govern themselves. The Declaration of Independence declares this same idea a "self-evident" truth. For Americans, there is no looking back. There will be war with England.

183-3 The Times That Try Men's Souls 1776-1777

Days after the Declaration of Independence is signed, a British force arrives in New York harbor. Washington and his troops are driven to New Jersey. With only a few days of enlistment left for many of his volunteers, a desperate Washington leads his army quietly across the Delaware River on the day after Christmas, 1776, to mount a surprise attack on a sleeping garrison in Trenton.

183-4 Oh Fatal Ambition 1777-1778

The "united" states remain in dire need of funds and military support. Congress dispatches Benjamin Franklin to France in hopes of creating an alliance which will provide both. Meanwhile, a British army marches down the Hudson River trying to cut off New England from the other colonies. The British are crushed by Americans at Saratoga. The French enter the conflict on the American side.

183-5 The World Turned Upside Down 1778-1783

The British hope to exploit the issue of slavery and to enlist the support of loyalists in the south. They fail. After a series of brutal engagements, the British army heads for Virginia, only to be trapped by the miraculous convergence of Washington's army and the French fleet at Yorktown. The end of the war is at hand.

183-6 Are We to Be a Nation? 1783-1788

Peace comes to the United States, but governing the world's newest republic is no simple task. Congress is ineffectual and individual states act like sovereign nations. By the time the Constitutional Convention convenes in 1787, many wonder if the country can survive. The long ratification process helps define what sort of nation the United States is to be—a process that continues to this day.

184

Series: In America

5 parts, each 25 minutes, produced in 2004

The series features five separate immigrant stories, which trace the history of immigration to the United States and explore the immigration experience.

Roads to Memphis

79 minutes, produced in 2010, DVD format

The assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. took place in Memphis, Tennessee 42 years ago. Roads to Memphis tells the story of the assassin, James Earl Ray, and his target, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. The film also captures the turbulent forces at that time in American society that led these two men to their violent and tragic collision in Memphis. This is neither a strict biography of James Earl Ray, nor a repetition of familiar highlights from King's final months. It is a thought-provoking portrait of America in the crisis-laden year of 1968, in which Senator Robert Kennedy (President John Kennedy's brother) was assassinated only a month prior to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s killing. Major players related to King and Ray offer insightful commentary.

186

The Founding of a Nation: Benjamin Franklin

100 min, produced in 2005, DVD format

While most of us have a view of Benjamin Franklin as the little chubby, balding man with glasses, this is not the view captured in this documentary. The History Channel has done something that has been sorely needed, a factual, unvarnished account of a spirited man of many talents, one of the most pivotal men in American history. Franklin was a man of genius that transcended the centuries and this profile does a remarkable job of showing us the true man behind the odd haircut and glasses.

187

Christopher Columbus: Explorer of the New World

50 min, produced in 2005, DVD format

This Biography documentary uses period accounts, art and artifacts, and interviews with world-renowned historians to tell Columbus's often-reinterpreted story. Throughout his life Columbus never gave up believing that he had reached Asia. Despite his accomplishments, he died a broken, largely forgotten man.

188

Three Faiths, One God: Judaism, Christianity, Islam

120 minutes, produced in 2005, DVD format

This ground-breaking documentary compares similarities and differences in religious beliefs and practices that Islam has with Christianity and Judaism. It also examines how people of goodwill in the Abrahamic Faith communities are coming to terms with historical conflicts that impact their lives today, the crisis of the fundamentalist approach to religious pluralism, and tearing down barriers to understanding and respect.

189

America at a Crossroads: Muslim Americans

60 minutes, produced in 2007, DVD format

America at a Crossroads, a series of 11 films hosted by a journalist Robert MacNeil, explores the challenges confronting the world post 9/11 – including the war on terrorism, the conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan, the experience of American troops, the struggle for balance within the Islamic world, Muslim life in America, and perspectives on America's role globally.

190

Frederick Douglass

50 minutes, produced in 2005, DVD format

As a young man, he experienced the brutality of slavery firsthand. As an outspoken leader of the abolitionist movement, he became one of the most powerful voices in American history.

191

Iron Jawed Angels

124 minutes, produced in 2004, DVD format

Taking a fresh and contemporary look at a pivotal event in American history, Iron Jawed Angels tells the true story of how defiant and brilliant young activists Alice Paul, played by Hilary Swank, and Lucy Burns, played by Frances O'Connor, took the women's suffrage movement by storm, putting their lives at risk to help American women win the right to vote.

192

Amelia Earhart

50 minutes, produced in 2005, DVD format

She was an uncommon heroine, a legendary aviator, and the focus of one of the greatest mysteries of all time.

193

Walt Disney World

100 minutes, produced in 2005, DVD format

With soaring castles, sleek monorails, and lifelike animatronics The History Channel takes a behind-the-scene look at the ingenious industry and incredible engineering feats that went into building the renowned 27,000 acre Walt Disney World Complex.

194

Beyond Belief

87 minutes, produced in 2007, DVD format

Beyond Belief is a feature documentary directed by Beth Murphy. The film follows Susan Retik and Patti Quigley, two women who lost their husbands on September 11, 2001, as they set up humanitarian programs for war widows in Afghanistan. It premiered at the 2007 Tribeca Film Festival.

195

Citizen King

120 minutes, produced in 2004, DVD format

Citizen King pushes past the myths that have obscured King's story to reclaim the history of a people's leader. Using the personal recollections, diaries, letters, and eyewitness accounts of friends, family, journalists, law enforcement officers and historians, this film brings fresh insights to King's difficult journey, his charismatic -- if at times flawed -- leadership, and his truly remarkable impact.

196

America Beyond the Color Line

220 minutes, produced in 2003, DVD format

In four programs, Gates travels to four different parts of America - the East Coast, the deep South, inner-city Chicago and Hollywood. He explores this rich and diverse landscape, social as well as geographic, and meets the people who are defining black America, from the most famous and influential - Colin Powell, Quincy Jones, Samuel L. Jackson, Fannie Mae's Franklin Raines, Jesse Jackson, Russell Simmons, Chris Tucker, Alicia Keys, Maya Angelou, Morgan Freeman - to those at the grassroots.

197

Welcome: Portraits of America

7 minutes, produced in 2007, DVD format

Walt Disney Parks and Resorts, in partnership with U.S. Department of Homeland Security and U.S. Department of State, recently premiered "Welcome: Portraits of America," a multi-media initiative to welcome international visitors to the United States. The donation from Disney included a seven-minute film and hundreds of still images, featuring American people from all regions and walks of life.

198

Muhammad Ali: Made in Miami

60 minutes, produced in 2008, DVD format

In 1960, a young boxer named Cassius Clay came to Miami, determined to become world heavyweight champion. In the end, he became something more—a legend. Combining original footage with interviews of those who were closest to him—including his trainer, Angelo Dundee, fight doctor Ferdie Pacheco, and Ali's Miami neighbors and friends—Muhammad Ali: Made in Miami is the story of that evolution, as well as a chronicle of Miami's historic black community and the famed Fifth Street Gym. See why, without Miami, there might never have been a Muhammad Ali.

We stop at the Shoe House in York, PA, climb inside the old Frates Milk Bottle at Tali's Place in New Bedford, MA, and sleep in a tepee at the Wigwam Village in Cave City, KY. These and many more places have the amazing ability to boost business and reflect an All-American sort of pride in the big, the unusual and the attention-grabbing wonderful.

The Living Edens

3 parts, 60 minutes each, produced in 1997-2001, DVD format

247-1 The Living Edens: Big Sur, California's Wild Coast

Daybreak of California's Big Sur coast reveals a frenzy of shearwaters feasting on anchovies near beds of giant kelp where sea otters prepare a lunchtime meal of abalones. Afternoon fog bathes Big Sur's ancient redwood forests where sparkling creeks cascade musically toward the coast through dreamy carpets of lupine. Here, acorn woodpeckers comically toil and California condors and peregrine falcons wheel in the sky above. Elephant seals come here to breed, but for a few unlucky pups, there is no escape from the violence of a fierce winter storm. Sunset and moonrise open a door into an alien underwater world, and a new dawn inspires a sense that the world around us is alive and thriving in a Living Eden called Big Sur.

247-2 The Living Edens: Denali, Alaska's Great Wilderness

The Indians called the frozen peak of this great Alaskan mountain range Denali, or "the high one." Most know it as Mount McKinley. This preserved wilderness comes to life with the thaw of spring and wildlife abounds during the brief summer, only to succumb to the grip of the long winter. Watch as five-week old grizzly cubs play, a moose gives birth to her calf, and a wood frog survives the deep freeze of winter. Breathtaking shots of dazzling northern lights over vast and lush wilderness make this an unforgettable Eden.

247-3 The Living Edens: Yellowstone, America's Sacred Wilderness

"Exciting things are always happening in Yellowstone" and one of the world's leading authorities on the Park should know. Paul Schullery, acclaimed author and naturalist, has been watching wildlife in Yellowstone for thirty years. He is our guide through this extraordinary Eden where wolves and grizzly bears chase elk, and mountain lions play in the sunshine. Dramas occur in every season, for Yellowstone isn't just the world's first National Park - it is living proof of our relationship with nature.

Grand Canyon: America's Scenic Treasure

20 minutes, produced in 2009, DVD format (grades 5-12)

Grand Canyon National Park in the state of Arizona is one of the world's premier natural attractions, drawing about five million visitors per year. Most visitors who first view the one mile deep canyon (2,100 m) as they walk to its edge report that they've had one of the most overpowering and memorable experiences of their lives. Grand Canyon: America's Scenic Treasure looks at the geological features that make the canyon a scenic wonder. It recalls the efforts of environmentalists to prevent dams from being built on the Colorado River – dams that ultimately robbed the Canyon's riverbank of its life giving sediments. It also describes the controlled flooding that is helping to restore the landscape and health of the river and its banks. A second segment considers the ecology of the Grand Canyon and introduces the animals that live there. It links these and the Havasupai Indians who made the Canyons their home for hundreds of years before Europeans arrived. The final segment shows the Canyon's hiking trails and recreational activities, such as rafting and swimming, that so many enjoy in the Canyon and in the surrounding areas.

Yosemite: Inspiration for Conservation

20 minutes, produced in 2009, DVD format (grades 5-12)

This program tells the story of a ninety-five year old African-American woman's long journey into the town to buy medicine for her ailing grandson. The program stars Cora Lee Day and Brad Dourif.

537-2 Old Forest (by Peter Taylor)

60:15 minutes, produced in 1991

In this short story, a Memphis gentleman recalls one week in 1937 when, just before his wedding, he and a young working class woman are involved in a car wreck. The events following the accident provide a subtle yet penetrating look at the class divisions, sex roles, and social mores of the urban south during the late 1930's.

537-3 Quest (by Ray Bradbury)

29:57 minutes, produced in 1983

This is an engrossing tale of a race of people trapped on a strange planet where a lack of sunlight and vegetation has chosen to find the "gate," letting in the light which will bring life and peace to the people.

537-4 Last Leaf (by O. Henry)

22:35 minutes, produced in 1993

This program offers an excellent example of O. Henry's trademark twist ending. It is a bitter-sweet lesson of how a young girl is saved by the brave actions of an unlikely hero.

537-5 Chrysanthemums (by John Steinbeck)

22:33 minutes, produced in 1991

The raising of her chrysanthemums is the central outlet of Elisa, the main character, who yearns for a more adventurous and meaningful life. Her encounter with an itinerant tinker brings confidence in herself at first, then overwhelming defeat through deceit and societal limitation in the early 1930's.

537-7 Two Soldiers (by William Faulkner)

30:14 minutes, produced in 1985

A sensitive film version of a young farm boy who wants to go to war with his older brother. Set in the rural south at the time of America's entrance into World War II, the program evokes a simpler time in America's history. First prize, Birmingham educational film festival.

Series: American Passages: A Literary Survey

16 parts, 30 minutes each, produced in 2003

The series explores works of fiction, prose, and poetry within their historical, social, and cultural contexts.

539-1 Native Voices & Exploring Borderlands

Native Voices: Native Americans had established a rich and highly developed tradition of oral literature long before the writings of the European colonists. This program introduces Native American oral traditions through the work of three contemporary authors: Leslie Marmon Silko (Laguna Pueblo), Simon Ortiz (Acoma Pueblo), and Luci Tapahonso (Navajo).

Exploring Borderlands: Chicana writer Gloria Anzaldúa tells us that the border is "una herida abierta [an open wound] where... the lifeblood of two worlds is merging to form a third country – a border culture." This program explores the literature of the Chicano borderlands and its beginnings in the literature of Spanish colonization.

539-2 Utopian Promise & Spirit of Nationalism

Utopian Promise: When British colonists landed in the Americas, they created communities that they hoped would serve as a "light onto the nations." This program compares the answers of two important groups, the Puritans and Quakers, and exposes the lasting influence they had upon American identity.

Spirit of Nationalism: The Enlightenment brought new ideals and a new notion of selfhood to the American colonies. This program begins with "the self-made man" in Benjamin Franklin's autobiography, and then turns to the development of this concept in the writings of Romanticist Ralph Waldo Emerson.

539-3 Masculine Heroes & Gothic Undercurrents

Masculine Heroes: In 1898, Frederick Jackson Turner declared the frontier as the defining feature of American culture. This program turns to three key writers of the early national period – James Fenimore Cooper, John Rollin Ridge, and Walt Whitman.

Gothic Undercurrents: What was haunting in the American nation in the 1850s? The three writers treated in this program – Nathaniel Hawthorne, Herman Melville, and Emily Dickinson – use poetry and prose to explore the dark side of the nineteenth-century America.

539-4 Slavery and Freedom & Regional Realism

Slavery and Freedom: How has slavery shaped the American literary imagination and American identity? This program turns to the classic slave narratives of Harriet Jacobs and Frederick Douglass, as well as the fiction of Harriet Beecher Stowe.

Regional Realism: Mark Twain's novel The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn remains a classic of American literature. This program compares Twain's depiction of Southern vernacular culture to that of Charles Chestnutt and Kate Chopin and introduces the hallmarks of American realism.

539-5 Social Realism & Rhythms in Poetry

Social Realism: This program presents the authors of the American Gilded Age, such as Edith Wharton, and juxtaposes them with social realists like Anzia Yezierska. These writers expose the double world that made up turn-of-the-century New York: that of the elite and that of the poorest of the poor.

Rhythms in Poetry: Amidst the chaos following World War I, Ezra Pound urged poets to "Make it new!" This program explores the modernist lyrics of two of these poets: William Carlos Williams and Langston Hughes. What is modernism? How did these poets start a revolution that continues until this day?

539-6 Modernist Portraits & Migrant Struggle

Modernist Portraits: Jazz filled the air and wailed against the night. Writers such as Hemingway, Stein, and Fitzgerald forged a new style: one which silhouetted the geometry of language, crisp in its own cleanness.

Migrant Struggle: Americans have often defined themselves through their relationship to the land. The program traces the social fiction of three key American voices: John Steinbeck, Carlos Bulosan, and Helena María Viramontes.

539-7 Southern Renaissance & Becoming Visible

Southern Renaissance: This program uncovers the re-visioning of Southern myths during the modernist era by writers William Faulkner and Zora Neale Hurston.

Becoming Visible: This program guides the viewer through the works and contexts of ethnic writers from 1945-1965. Starting with the works of Ralph Waldo Ellison, Philip Roth, and N. Scott Momaday, we explore the way writers from the margins took over the center of American culture.

540

Alice Walker: "Everyday Use"

26 minutes, produced in 2005, DVD format
This is a filmed adaptation of Alice Walker's short story "Everyday Use." It is the story of Maggie, who has not ventured outside her rural community, who sees the old family quilt – an heirloom already promised to her – as something with practical utility as well as tradition. Her more worldly, educated sister wants to hang it on the wall as art. With whom will their mother agree?

541

Walt Whitman

120 minutes, produced in 2008, DVD format

He is today one of the most-recognized figures in American literary history: poet, patriot and faithful advocate of democracy. His name graces shopping malls, highway rest stops, and local high schools. He has adherents around the globe. But in his own time, critics denounced Walt Whitman as a "lunatic raving in pitiable delirium." They pronounced his signature book of poetry, Leaves of Grass, "slimy," "vile," and "beastly." One reviewer wished to see him whipped in public; another suggested he commit suicide. He was famously "banned in Boston." Even by his own measure, Walt Whitman failed in so many ways in his own lifetime: failed in his attempt to reach a vast audience of ordinary men and women; failed to achieve the laurels he craved; and most painfully, failed to talk the nation out of an impending civil war.

VISUAL ARTS

ART:21

4 parts, each 1 hour long, produced in 2007, DVD format

ART:21 - Art in the 21st Century is the only television series that focuses exclusively on contemporary visual art and artists in the United States. Intimate film footage allows the viewer to observe the artists at work, watch their process as they transform creative ideas into art, and listen to their thoughts as they grapple with the challenges of achieving their artistic visions. Each episode is loosely structured around a theme: Romance, Protest, Ecology, and Paradox.

a. Romance: This episode features artists whose works are extended meditations on mortality, love, reality and make-believe. The artists: Laurie Simmons, a feature film creator; Lari Pitman, painter; Judy Pfaff, sculptor; Pierre Huyghe, films, installations, events.

b. Protest: How do artists engage politics, inequality, and the many conflicts that besiege the world today? How do artists use their work to discuss or oppose misery, turmoil, and injustice? The artists: Nancy Spero, painter; An-My Le, landscape photographer; Alfredo Jaar, photography; Jenny Holzer, paintings and print.

c. Ecology: This episode delves into the work of four artists who explore the relationship of nature and culture, the impact of technology on biology, and our relationship to the earth. The artists: Ursula von Rydingsvard, sculptor; Inigo Mangano-Ovalle, sculptor; Mark Dion, found objects formed into installations; Robert Adams, photographer.

d. Paradox: Here the artists investigate the boundaries between abstraction and representation, fact and fiction, order and chaos. Artists: Mark Bradford, collage; Catherine Sullivan, filmmaking; Robert Ryman, painter; Jennifer Allora and Guillermo Calzadilla, mix of sculpture, photography, performance, sound and video.

ENVIRONMENT / SCIENCE / TECHNOLOGY

701

Series: Mind

6 parts, 60 minutes each, produced in 1990

Series providing introduction to the current state of knowledge about the mind and such fundamentals as our sense of self, language, memory dysfunction, and the unconscious. World famous scientists are interviewed and shown at work on case studies.

701-1 The Search for the Mind

Raises the question, "What is the mind?" by providing a historical context.

701-3 Language

Focuses on the special human phenomenon of speech and presents theories that differ on the evolution of language.

701-4 The Violent Mind

Part I (60 min.); Part II (30 min.)

Looks at how changes in anatomy and chemistry of the mind can cause violent behavior.

701-5 Development

Features the development of the human brain from a single cell to a six-year-old brain.

701-6 Aging

Examines what happens to the brain and mind during the aging process.

701-8 Pain and Healing

Examines the mind's role in healing the body and controlling pain.

707

Reflections: Buckminster Fuller

54 minutes, produced in 1978

Inventor, writer, architect, futurist, and philosopher R. Buckminster Fuller discusses his life and work. In this film he explains the principles behind his geodesic dome, dymaxion car, synergetic geometry, and the World Game.

716

Space Station

22 minutes, produced in 1986

Program focuses on the long-standing dream and goal of a space station to permanently house those engaged in space exploration. The configuration of the future space station and the challenging uses of space are among the topics discussed.

721

Series: Conserving America

4 parts, each 60 minutes, produced in 1989

Four one-hour documentaries produced by WQED/Pittsburgh and presented in association with the National Wildlife Federation. The programs travel all over America to record the actualities of stewardship for the land and a new era of conservation: grassroots, community efforts carried out in a spirit of cooperation, and caring.

721-1 The Challenge on the Coast

The story of dedicated people whose untiring efforts are helping to protect and restore America's coastal resources.

721-2 Champions of Wildlife

A new breed of inspired individuals work day and night to fight the destruction of America's wildlife and its natural habitats.

721-3 The Wetlands

Program introduces us to a former trapper turned guide, who takes us in her boat along part of a rapidly-eroding coastal marsh which is spawning ground for half of the nation's seafood; a 97-year-old conservation hero, the author of the bestseller River of Grass, who still champions the saving of her beloved Everglades; and in Louisiana, a businessman, a game warden, and a farmer celebrate the victorious saving of 70,000 acres of forest.

721-4 The Rivers

This program reveals that only one percent of America's rivers are protected by the Federal Wild and Scenic Rivers Act. Dams, channelization, and industrial and urban development pose real problems in keeping our rivers unchanged for future generations.

722

Voyager - The Grand Tour

20 minutes, produced in 1990

This documentary gives a historical overview of Voyagers I and II and their explorations into space to study the planets of Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune.

723

In Partnership with the Earth

60 minutes, produced in 1990

The program is intended to acquaint the public with the progress made over the last 20 years in reducing pollution and to show the innovative steps that some companies, states and private citizens are taking to prevent pollution at the source. The first half of the program gives an overall review on current environmental issues and concerns. The second half features interviews with a variety of private companies and individuals showing what people are doing to promote environmental awareness and how they are cooperating to build a better environmental future.

724

Series: National Audubon Society Specials
5 parts, 60 minutes each, produced in 1988

The wonder and beauty of nature's barest creatures are highlighted in this series. Dramatic and exclusive scenes of animals define the importance of conserving our natural heritage and protecting our wildlife and the environment.

724-1 Ancient Forests - Rage of Trees

In the Pacific Northwest, conservationists and loggers are engaged in a gripping battle over the last of the ancient forests. For the timber industry, harvesting and old growth allows for the planting of younger, more profitable trees, which the industry claims is an economic necessity. To conservationists, the destruction of this vital, natural ecosystem destroys the Northwest tourist trade, the beauty of the landscape, and the habitat of thousands of animals. Actor Paul Newman narrates.

724-2 Arctic Refuge - a Vanishing Wilderness

The wilderness of Alaska's Arctic National Wildlife Refuge has been called the "American Serengeti" because of its vast caribou population. America's ever-growing hunger for energy products has led the oil industry to push for exploration on the very land the Alaskan caribou have claimed for their calving area. Animals are not the only issue, however, because the effect of major industry in the area would also devastate the Eskimo population who live off the land. Actress Meryl Streep narrates.

724-3 Common Ground - Farming and Wildlife

Can farming be profitable for farmers and good for the environment? This program highlights alternative cost effective methods of raising crops that can benefit farming and work with nature's abundance for generations to come. Actor Dennis Weaver narrates.

724-4 Grizzly and Man - Uneasy Truce

Can humans and grizzly bears share territory without conflict? This program, narrated by Robert Redford, examines management techniques, research, and public education efforts to ensure a place for the grizzly in the human world.

724-5 Messages from Birds

Every spring migrating shorebirds stop at the Delaware Bay to feast on crab eggs before continuing their journey north to breed. Bird counts provide accurate and scientifically valid data that indicate how well birds have survived potential threats to their habitats. This program explains the difference that people can make in preserving parts of our natural world. Actor Martin Sheen narrates.

725Inherit the Sea: America's Marine Sanctuaries

30:03 minutes, produced in 1991

This video introduces the viewer to the marine sanctuary program and undersea world it is designed to protect. An overview of the sanctuary program, as well as its prospects for expansion, are highlighted. The program was established by the Center for Marine Conservation (CMC) to protect marine wildlife and their habitats and to conserve coastal resources.

726Changing Skylines: America Recycles

30 minutes, produced in 1991

This program, narrated by veteran journalist Peter Hackes, profiles recycling successes throughout the country at local government, corporate, and family levels. It documents the transformation of common consumer products such as newspapers and plastic soda bottles into their useful recycled counterparts.

728Rachel Carson's Silent Spring

56:26 minutes, produced in 1993

This program from the award-winning American Experience -series chronicles the life of Rachel Carson, a biologist well-known for her writing on environmental pollution and the natural history of the sea.

729Apollo 11: One Giant Step for Mankind

30 minutes, produced in 1969

In this dramatic account of man's first moon landing, July 20, 1969, the program carries Apollo 11 from pre-flight preparations to the Pacific splashdown of astronauts Armstrong, Aldrin, and Collins; greetings aboard the Hornet by President Nixon; and the astronauts' subsequent arrival at NASA headquarters in Houston. Footage taken on the moon shows the astronauts collecting materials and engaging in other activities, and the Eagles' descent and takeoff from the moon.

730Albert Einstein - How I See the World

60 minutes, produced in 1993

Albert Einstein, scientist, philosopher and humanitarian, became a spokesman of the nuclear age and an icon of the 20th century. The video portrays the unknown young physicist who shocked the world with his revolutionary theories and the older Einstein who was to witness the catastrophic consequences of his earlier theories with the making and dropping of the atomic bomb. Much of the story is told in his own words, through excerpts from his personal letters, diaries, public speeches, and writings. Interviews with Einstein's colleagues, friends, and historians recall personal stories and impressions of Einstein and provide interpretations of his scientific achievements.

731

Earthquakes

30 minutes, produced in 1995

This special report investigates earthquakes in the Pacific Northwest.

733

Series: Our Planet, Our Earth

2 parts

733-1 The Wilderness Idea

57:38 minutes, produced in 1989

This documentary chronicles the lives of early conservationists John Muir and Gifford Pinchot, and examines the emergence of the American conservation movement and its effect on the natural environment.

733-2 The Adirondacks

34:16 minutes, produced in 1987

New York State's Adirondack Park is the largest wilderness area in the eastern United States, where a startling range of plant and animal life is spread through some of America's most beautiful mountain terrain.

734

Empty Oceans, Empty Nets

55 minutes, produced in 2002

The program explores the immense changes threatening marine fisheries worldwide. Entire populations of fish are becoming commercially extinct, yet consumers' demand for fish is on the rise. Over one billion people in Asia already depend on ocean fish for their entire supply of protein, as does one out of every five Africans. Much of the seafood consumed in the U.S. is imported from developing countries. The entire world shares an interest in restoring and maintaining this critical food supply.

735

Series: Masters of Technology

2 parts, each 150 minutes, produced in 2001

The series introduces us to five revolutionary thinkers who've changed the way we live today, and discover how their scientific and technological innovations will shape our future. Insightful, personal interviews and fascinating footage shine a new light on the lives and achievements of these unsung heroes – from the early years of their careers and frustrating failures, to their breakthrough moments and professional triumphs. Meet “the father of the Internet,” Vinton Cerf, a digital pioneer who has altered how we work, shop, and communicate. Explore how space engineer Donna Shirley faced discrimination and other struggles as the first female to lead a NASA team. Drive into the future and see how Geoffrey Ballard developed a hydrogen fuel cell that may someday power a nation full of zero-emission vehicles. See how Robert Langer's inventions have impacted medical treatments, and how we might grow complete, transplantable organs in the future. Join Burt Rutan as he pilots one of his many experimental aircraft, and hear how he's making planes the personal transportation vehicle of tomorrow.

735-1 Masters of Technology, part 1

735-2 Masters of Technology, part 2

736

Mars: Dead or Alive: An exclusive behind-the-scenes look at NASA's successful mission to Mars

60 minutes, produced in 2004

Two-thirds of all spacecraft previously launched to Mars never reached their destination. Now, in a pioneering and risky mission, twin rovers named Spirit and Opportunity hurtle toward Mars at 12,000 miles per hour, with Spirit scheduled to touch down first. In the final “six minutes of terror” a parachute will open, giant protective airbags will inflate around the lander, and retrorockets will fire for a few seconds before Spirit is cut loose, bouncing its way to what everyone hopes will be a safe landing. To survive, Spirit will have to function perfectly. It will also have to be lucky, since there's no way of knowing when a sharp rock or a gust of wind will ruin your day on Mars. Only then will Spirit be able to roll off the lander and begin its mission as a robot geologist, searching for clues that can tell us whether this harsh and barren planet was ever a place that could have supported life.

737

Welcome to Mars: NASA's ongoing search for the life beyond Earth

60 minutes, produced in 2005

Take an astounding look at the red planet in this interplanetary adventure that picks up where the acclaimed film MARS Dead or Alive left off. From the white-knuckle landings of the Mars rovers Spirit and Opportunity, through months of frustrating setbacks and elating discoveries, Welcome to Mars captures the gripping drama and the breathtaking images of the most significant events.

738

design e2

six parts, 180 minutes, produced in 2006, DVD format

design e2 (the economics of being environmentally conscious) is an original six-part series that explores the vitality of the environment through ecofriendly architecture. Traversing the globe, the series chronicles important stories of green architecture as they exist in New York, Chicago, China, and into the future. Narrated by Brad Pitt and masterfully shot in high-definition, the series introduces us to the inventive leaders and technologies driving sustainable practices worldwide in the design of buildings where we live, work, and play. design e2 challenges us to live smarter, live greener, and live with the future in mind.

739

Thomas A. Edison: Father of Invention

50 minutes, produced in 2006, DVD format

Without the success of his innovations and groundbreaking inventions, modern-day life as we know it would be wholly unimaginable. From his Midwestern childhood to the achievement of international fame, Biography brings you the illuminating story of this revolutionary man.

740

Life After Oil: The New Energy Alternatives

30 minutes, produced in 2007, DVD format

Our greatest challenge in the future is to replace our dependence on fossil fuels – oil and coal – with alternative sources of energy. The solutions are within our reach. But we must refine and adopt the energy sources that already exist in the laboratory. Life After Oil illustrates how this goal can be achieved through technological innovation and perseverance.

741

e² energy

6 episodes, 30 minutes each, produced in 2007, DVD format

e² energy features the engineers, policymakers and innovations that are transforming energy availability and consumption. Each episode covers viable policy and technology alternatives to the fossil fuel culture. Episodes explore: California as a world leader in emissions control; transportation and the need for greater efficiencies; ethanol in Brazil and its future in the United States; distributed solar energy as a means to poverty alleviation in Bangladesh; community wind in Minnesota and its role in regional economic development; and the role of coal and nuclear power in our future energy mix. Solutions-oriented, the series illustrates the trials and trade-offs that any evolution in our global energy system will demand. e² energy is narrated by Morgan Freeman.

e² design

6 episodes, 30 minutes each, produced in 2008, DVD format

Global in scope and comprised of six 30-minute chapters filmed in HD, e² design season three features the innovators and pioneers in the world of sustainable architecture. This ongoing series explores real solutions to pressing environmental and social challenges, presented with a combination of compelling storytelling, provocative cinematography and an emotive original music score.

743

The Big Energy Gamble

56 minutes, produced in 2009, DVD format

Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger is betting on green. He wants to roll California's greenhouse gas emissions back to their 1990 levels, and he's promising Californians that their lifestyles – and their pocketbooks – won't feel the pinch. With help from eco-celebrities like Ed Begley, Jr. and Bill Nye, NOVA examines California's aggressive pursuit of a sustainable energy future.

744

759 Boy Scouts of Harlem

72 minutes, produced in 2009, DVD format

Boy Scouts of Harlem captures the hardships and successes of a young boy in a Boy Scout troop from the inner city of Harlem, New York. Naturally Obsessed: The Making of a Scientist

60 minutes, produced in 2010, DVD format

Naturally Obsessed: The Making of a Scientist provides unique insights into what it's like to do biological research in a laboratory, where young and not-so-young aspiring scientists compete with each other under the direction of a master scientist at the frontiers of biomedical research, hoping that their contributions will earn them a PhD. This video tells an intensely dramatic story about the race to beat the competition to discover the key mechanism that controls appetite in the human body. The pressure is on, as each student also struggles with a personal challenge. Rob, a perennial dropout, dares himself to stay the course. Kilpatrick has to choose between the easy life and academic success. Gabriele hovers between high aspirations and self doubt. Their guide and mentor, Larry, is a young professor deeply committed to passing on the baton of science. He urges his students to apply their creativity to solve tough problems, while encouraging them to accept the emotional roller coaster of doing science. This video underscores the qualities required of those who aspire to be scientists, such as persistence, tenacity, skill in asking the right questions, mastering the needed technology, mentoring and being mentored, collaborating, and facing competition. Drawn from three years of filming at the Shapiro Laboratory at the Columbia University Medical Center (New York), live action scenes capture the day-by-day experiences of aspiring scientists engaging in cutting edge research and "doing" science while highlighting the ups and downs of the mentor-student relationship, the kind of collaboration that science depends on.

COMMUNICATIONS AND INFORMATION

806

Television and the Presidency

90 minutes, produced in 1984

Utilizing archival news clips, 30 year old political commercials and recent interviews (with Richard Nixon, George McGovern, and Walter Mondale), writer and political historian Theodore H. White and actor E.G. Marshall trace the evolution of the American video politician. The program chronicles how the medium has been both the making and the undoing of candidates for the Presidency; how the marketing of a candidate has become big business; and how successful political campaigns are now designed for the TV audience.

Series: Public Mind - Image and Reality in America

2 parts, each 60 minutes, produced in 1989

This award winning and somewhat controversial series hosted by Bill Moyers examines the impact on democracy of mass culture, much of whose basic information comes from the media, public opinion polls, public relations, and image-making.

815-1 Consuming Images

Looks at a society inundated with mass-produced visual images from billboards to rock videos to newsstands. For some, it reveals pure manipulation; for others, it is the dawn of a new era. Advertising possesses politics and journalism as well as consumer products.

815-2 Illusions of News

Examines the impact of the visual image on news and politics in the electing of presidents and the governing of Americans. The program contends that the 80s produced a marriage of sophisticated news manipulations of candidates and a willingness of the media to dance to the candidates' tune. Are real issues thereby avoided? Leslie Stahl of CBS, Mike Deaver of the Reagan White House, and media analyst Ben Bagdikian are interviewed.

Shooting Women

54 minutes, produced 2008, DVD format

Shooting Women is the first in-depth look at the lives of camerawomen and their struggles to succeed in a male-dominated field. Filmmaker Alexis Krasilovsky based Shooting Women on her book Women Behind the Camera. Shooting Women features more than 50 camerawomen from around the world, celebrating the amazing talent and spirit of these camerawomen, the image-making women from the movie sets of Hollywood and Bollywood, to the news and documentary camerawork covering the war zones of Afghanistan. This film offers insight from top directors of photography like Ellen Kuras (Away We Go, the Betrayal-Nerakhoon, winner of an Academy Award) and Sandi Sissel (Salaam Bombay!). It also gives voice to stories of groundbreaking women like African-American Jessie Maple Patton, who sued the American union and networks for the right to work. With historic footage from China's first camerawoman who covered Chairman Mao's travels, to the secretly filmed beatings of women in Afghanistan, the viewer is offered a glimpse of how women behind the camera are changing the world. This film offers viewers the chance to learn about women's experiences with glass ceilings, double standards, sexual harassment, and labor history as they develop a critical eye for “women’s voice” in film.

Forrest Sawyer discusses the film industry with Kirk Douglas.

MUSIC

1103

Series: American Patchwork

5 parts, each 60 minutes, produced in 1990

In this five-part series from PBS, folklorist Alan Lomax explores America's diverse cultural heritage through song, dance, story, and festival. Lomax travels to various regions in the U.S. and explores their unique history and folk traditions as they are expressed in story and song.

1103-1 Jazz Parades - Feet Don't Fail Me Now

New Orleans, birthplace of American jazz, is the setting for this episode of American Patchwork. Mr. Lomax looks beneath the jaunty surface of New Orleans street parades and traditional jazz. He finds not just joyous music, but echoes of West African traditions and local history, including complex racial tensions between blacks and creoles and whites. This all translates into strutting rhythms, flamboyant costumes, and high-stepping clubs.

1103-2 Cajun Country - Don't Drop the Potato

Folklorist Alan Lomax traces the history of the Cajun people, French-speaking Louisianans, whose rich culture is full of tall tales and zesty Zydeco music. This fascinating program delves deep into the culture of the Cajun people, both white and black, and explores their music, family structures, lifestyles, and unique cultural traditions. This is the most comprehensive program done on Cajun people and contains many remarkable scenes some of which linger in the mind long after viewing.

1103-3 The Land Where the Blues Began

This program explores the Mississippi Delta and the social, cultural, and emotional background of American blues. Alan Lomax interviews artists like Lonnie Pitchford, who plays a homemade one-stringed electric guitar, and singing legend Sam Chatmon. Here blues is at its purest and the roots of American blues are revealed.

1103-4 Appalachian Journey

Viewers travel to the Smoky Mountains to discover how a mix of British and African-American cultures, urban influences, and contact with the Cherokee Indians resulted in the region's unique blend of ballads, legends, handmade toys, and square dancing. Appalachian culture, crafts, and traditions are highlighted.

1103-5 Dreams and Songs of the Noble Old American Patchwork finishes in fine style with a celebration of the skills and wisdom of some of our country's greatest aging folk artists. The program features 87-year-old balladeer Nimrod Workman, fiddler and bootlegger Tommy Jarrell, and the famous Preservation Hall Jazz Band, among others.

1115-1 Celebrating Bird

This fascinating portrait of saxophonist Charlie Parker not only focuses on Parker, but also traces the evolution of jazz from the Armstrong era of the 1920s to bebop.

1115-2 Sarah Vaughn: The Divine One

Produced shortly after her death in 1990, this special program recounts Sarah Vaughn's career from her beginnings as a gospel-belting soloist and pianist in a church choir, to her discovery by Billy Eckstine through her preeminence in nightclubs, concert halls, and jazz festivals around the world.

1115-3 Lady Day: The Many Faces of Billie Holiday

This program is considered by many critics as the best filmed retrospective of Billie Holiday ever made. Using a collage of vintage photos, rare concert footage and interviews, the program delivers a tender and compelling portrait of this singular performer. Holiday's life is traced from the difficult years in Baltimore and New York to her fame as a quintessential jazz vocalist.

1115-4 Satchmo: Louis Armstrong

This program explores the world of a legendary trumpeter, singer, jazz pioneer, and all-round entertainer - a man who was an American cultural ambassador for many years.

1116

Wild Women Don't Have the Blues

58:05 minutes, produced in 1989

The history of the blues and the women who helped create it is the subject of this program. The video recaptures the lives and times of Ma Rainey, Bessie Smith, Ida Cox, Ethel Waters, and many other legendary women who made the blues a part of American culture. Dozens of rare, classic renditions of early blues songs are included in the video.

1117

Grover Washington, Jr. in Concert

59:34 minutes, produced in 1981

Multiple Grammy Award-winner, Grover Washington, Jr., blends the best of jazz fusion, R and B, blues, funk, pop, and soul to create his own innovative and distinctive musical voice. One of the hottest stars in jazz pop fusion, backed by an all-star band, Washington is captured in this concert appearance at the very peak of his powers.

1118

Ladies Sing the Blues

60:20 minutes, produced in 1988

Original and rare footage of some of the most memorable blues and jazz singers of this century. The program features Billie Holiday, backed by one of the most extraordinary bands ever formed - Coleman Hawkins, Lester Young, Benny Webster, Roy Eldridge, and Gerry Mulligan. The great Bessie Smith in her only film appearance and Dinah Washington, from the stage of the Apollo Theatre, are featured. Ruth Brown, Peggy Lee, Sarah Vaughn, Lena Horne, and others sing their classics. A brief biographic sketch of each performer is given.

1119

Series: Jazz

10 parts, 90-120 minutes each, produced in 2000

In this ten-part series from PBS, the acclaimed filmmaker Ken Burns explores jazz from its birth in the 1890s to the beginning of the 21st century as jazz shows no sign of slowing down. It is still alive, changing, and swinging.

1128-1 Gumbo

90 minutes

Jazz is born in New Orleans during the 1890s, at the height of the Jim Crow era. It is a creation of the African-American community but incorporates every kind of music heard in the streets of the country's most cosmopolitan city. Few people beyond its birthplace have a chance to hear jazz until 1917, when a group of white musicians – the Original Dixieland Jazz Band – make the first recording. It outsells every other record made up to that time, and jazz becomes a national craze.

1128-2 The Gift

120 minutes

The story of jazz becomes the story of two great cities, Chicago and New York, and of two extraordinary artists whose lives and music span almost three-quarters of a century – Louis Armstrong and Duke Ellington.

1128-3 Our Language

120 minutes

As the stock market soars to record heights, jazz is played in dance halls and speakeasies everywhere. The music now places more emphasis on the innovations of supremely gifted individuals: Bessie Smith, Bix Beiderbecke, Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw, and Sidney Bechet.

1128-4 The True Welcome

120 minutes

America finds itself in the worst crisis since the Civil War - in the Great Depression - and jazz is called upon to lift the spirits of a frightened country. Young people go crazy in the 1930s when Goodman's men begin to play the jazz they love, and the Swing era is born.

1128-5 Swing: Pure Pleasure

90 minutes

Jazz comes as close as it has ever come to being America's popular music during the Great Depression. It has a new name – Swing – and for the first time musicians become matinee idols. The program features musicians such as Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey, Jimmie Lunceford, Glen Miller, and Artie Shaw.

1128-6 Swing: The Velocity of Celebration

105 minutes

Swing is still a national craze that keeps on growing despite the Depression but in the middle of the country – in black dance halls, roadhouses, and juke joints – a new kind of music has been incubating. Pulsing, stomping, and suffused with the blues, it is played by men and women seasoned in cutting contests that sometimes go on all night.

1128-7 Dedicated to Chaos

120 minutes

Swing becomes a symbol of democracy at home and bandleaders like Glenn Miller and Artie Shaw enlist and take their music to the men and women of the armed forces overseas as America enters World War II in 1941.

1128-8 Risk

120 minutes

The nation's musical tastes are changing during the Cold War as young people turn to sentimental singers and rhythm and blues. One by one, big bands leave the road. The program features musicians such as Duke Ellington, Dizzy Gillespie, Charlie Parker, Miles Davis, and Dave Brubeck.

1128-9 The Adventure

120 minutes

Post-war prosperity continues but beneath its placid surface there is a growing demand for civil rights. Louis Armstrong decides to risk his career by speaking out against southern defiance of the Constitution while Miles Davis becomes an icon for an entire generation of Americans.

1128-10 A Masterpiece by Midnight

120 minutes

By the early 1960s, jazz is in trouble. Young people overwhelmingly prefer rock'n'roll over jazz. Desperate for work, some musicians go into exile overseas while some artists mix music with social protest during the Civil Rights struggle. But jazz is not dead as Dexter Gordon proves.

1130

Series: Mountain Stage

4 parts, 60 minutes each, produced in 2003

Let Freedom Sing

102 minutes, produced in 2009, DVD format

Let Freedom Sing retells one of the most important stories in American history in a dramatically new way. Billie Holiday's song about lynching, "Strange Fruit," takes us back to the era of brutally enforced segregation. And then the story sweeps us to the heart of the Civil Rights movement in the 1960s and explores its impact on music, politics and culture in the decades that followed. There are dramatic first-person accounts by Mississippi Freedom Riders who sang to give themselves courage in the face of danger. There are the songs from the 1963 March on Washington when Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. gave his "I Have a Dream" speech. And there are award-winning artists and musicians whose songs inspired generations to take up the struggle for civil rights and human rights throughout America and the world.

Included are: Mahalia Jackson, Marvin Gaye, Nina Simone, Aretha Franklin, Chuck D, James Brown, Hugh Masekela, Curtis Mayfield, the Staple Singers, Bob Marley, Five Blind Boys, Stevie Wonder, Pete Seeger and many others.

1133

Soundmix: Five Young Musicians

57 minutes, produced in 2004, DVD Format

"Soundmix: Five Young Musicians" is a one-hour PBS special that profiles five young musicians who are reinvigorating American musical traditions. Each profile explores the music, mentors, cultures, and communities that fuel the passions of these young players. "Soundmix" also includes scenes from a workshop where the young musicians meet for the first time. Other musicians featured in the program include the trumpeter Wynton Marsalis, the Latin percussionist Louis Bauzo, and the late old time fiddle legend Melvin Wine.

THEATER

Series: American Short Story

12 parts, 39-58 minutes each

1201-2 Barn Burning

45 minutes, produced in 1980

William Faulkner's tale of a young man in the rural deep South who is torn between his sense of right and wrong, winning his father's approval, and his loyalty to fellow sharecroppers victimized by the landlord's tyranny. Tommy Lee Jones stars.

1201-3 Bernice Bobs Her Hair

48 minutes, produced in 1977

In this F. Scott Fitzgerald story, Shelly Duvall plays Bernice, the "ugly duckling" cousin from the country, who is turned into a sought-after vamp by her cousin Marjorie, played by Veronica Cartwright. Bernice is trapped into cutting her hair to prove her mettle. She thus loses her newfound beauty, but her revenge gives the story a delightful ironic twist.

1201-4 The Blue Hotel

55 minutes, produced in 1975

This Stephen Crane short story takes place in the 1880s. A young Swede arrives at the hotel of a moody, frontier Nebraska town. He anticipates the wild west of the dime novels and parlays. Unable to relate to his new environment, the Swede is antagonistic to his hotelkeeper and fellow guests. A fateful card game results in accusations of cheating, a fight, and a violent climax.

1201-5 The Displaced Person

58 minutes, produced in 1977

A family of Poles, displaced after World War II, comes to live and work on a southern farm. The people already working the farm see their positions threatened. In this Flannery O'Connor tale, personal frictions eventually end in the death of the Polish man, the displacement of the workers from the land, and the loss of the farm by the owner.

1201-7 The Greatest Man in the World

53 minutes, produced in 1980

James Thurber's story of an incorrigible lout who becomes the first person to make a solo, non-stop flight around the world - to the delight of cynical newsmen and the dismay of officials who try desperately to make a socially acceptable hero of him. Brad Davis, Howard da Silva, and Carol Kane star.

1201-9 The Jilting of Granny Weatherball

48 minutes, produced in 1980

Geraldine Fitzgerald stars in Katherine Anne Porter's story of a matriarch who, in her last hours, struggles to resolve tormenting memories of the distant but not successfully buried past.

1201-12 The Music School

60 minutes, produced in 1974

In this John Updike story, the central character, a writer, dwells on the culture around him. The implications of religion and technology, contemporary violence, and social change all emerge in vivid images while the writer struggles, during a twenty-four hour period, to find a focus in his life.

1201-13 Parker Adderson, Philosopher

45 minutes, produced in 1975

In this Ambrose Bierce short story, a Union Army spy, Parker Adderson, is captured behind enemy lines at the end of the Civil War. He is sympathetic towards a young lieutenant, but is at odds with the Confederate general. In a struggle before his execution, the lieutenant is killed and the general is wounded. The general dies and the spy is shot.

1201-14 Paul's Case

53 minutes, produced in 1980

Willa Cather's turn-of-the-century tale about a romantic, sensitive young man who risks everything to escape his stultifying Pittsburgh background for a brief but splendid fling in Manhattan.

1201-16 The Sky Is Gray

48 minutes, produced in 1980

Ernest Gaines' sensitive story of a young black boy's first trip off the farm to a small Louisiana town and of the sudden revelations in violence, sex, racism, kindness, and human dignity that await him.

1201-17 Soldier's Home

42 minutes, produced in 1977

Harold Krebs, the central figure in Ernest Hemingway's study of dislocation in post-World War I America, is a soldier returned home to a community in which he feels alien. Unable to find himself with family and friends, he leaves town to search for his uncertain future.

1202

Series: Broadway: The American Musical

6 parts, each 1 hour, produced in 2004

Broadway: The American Musical is the first documentary film to showcase the entire razzle-dazzle story of this uniquely American art form. Each episode explores a different era in American musical theatre, spotlighting the Broadway shows and songs that defined that period.

Featuring on-camera interviews with many of the principals involved in the development of the medium, the series draws on a wealth of rare performance footage and newly-restored film clips. Hosted by Julie Andrews, the six-part series offers the best seat in the house to the greatest Broadway shows of all time.

1202-1 Episode 1: Give My Regards to Broadway (1893-1927) and Episode 2: Syncopated City (1919-1933)

1202-2 Episode 3: I Got Plenty O' Nuttin' (1930-1942) and Episode 4: Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin' (1943-1960)

1202-3 Episode 5: Tradition (1957-1979) and Episode 6: Putting It Together (1980-2004)

1203

Chaos and Order: Making American Theater

68 minutes, produced in 2006, DVD format

The American Repertory Theater is one of the most respected and innovative dramatic institutions in the United States. Through the prism of the A.R.T., this program explores the organizational and creative challenges facing today's theater community and describes the flexibility and resilience arts groups must have to survive in today's cultural climate.

ARCHITECTURE AND DESIGN

1300

Series: America by Design

5 parts, 60 minutes each, produced in 1988

When Spiro Kostof's acclaimed book History of Architecture was published, The New York Times predicted that Kostof would make a wonderful host for a Public Television series. With America by Design, that prediction has come true. This five-part series looks at the history of American architecture and design.

1300-1 The House

Explores the evolution of the single-family detached dwelling as a symbol of the American dream. Apartment buildings, mansions, row houses, farm houses, and mobile homes also figure in the story.

1300-2 The Workplace

Focuses on farms, mills, factories, warehouses, and office buildings, tracing the changes that have taken place over three hundred years.

1300-3 The Street

Traces the history of American transportation systems from rivers to railways and from simple roads to high-speed interstate highways.

1300-5 The Shape of the Land

Illustrates how farming and strip mining, bridges and irrigation projects - and, of course, our settlement patterns - have left their imprints on the shape of the American land mass.

1301

Uncommon Places - The Architecture of Frank Lloyd Wright

60 minutes, produced in 1985

Frank Lloyd Wright grew up in the low green hill country of Wisconsin, where he was inspired by the local river and the arches of oak trees on the surrounding river banks. He used his love of nature as an important factor in his tranquil designs. Uncommon Places attempts to capture Wright's own "small integrated universe," featuring dozens of examples of his best-known buildings, including Falling Water - a place where man and nature interlock.

1303

New Modernists - Nine American Architects

59 minutes, produced in 1993

Profiles a group of American architects whose styles are very different, including Stephen Holl, Mark Mack, Thom Mayne, Michael Rotondi, Stanley Satowitz, Henry Smith-Miller, Laurie Hawkinson, Tod Williams, and Billie Tsien.

1304

World Trade Center: In Memoriam

50 minutes, produced in 2001, DVD format

For a time, its towers were the tallest buildings on earth, and the World Trade Center - an engineering marvel - came to symbolize American prosperity and strength. Recalling a more innocent era, World Trade Center: In Memoriam was filmed just months before the towers' tragic demise and subsequently enriched with heartfelt reflection from host Harry Smith. This new production from The History Channel charts the history of the towers' construction, revealing the controversies, decisions and innovations that surrounded the project, and - through interviews with those who proudly and ambitiously dreamt, designed and built the complex.

Getting to Know the World's Greatest Artists: Andy Warhol

24 minutes, produced 2007 by Getting to Know, DVD format

When Andy Warhol silk-screened an image of a Campbell's soup can onto a canvas and hung it on the wall, he helped take art from the shadowy unconsciousness of Abstract Expressionist to the brightly lit shelves of the supermarket. An icon of Pop Art and the first modern art superstar, Andy Warhol loved the limelight. And, in this delightful animated video, he loves telling viewers the story of his life and works – from his blue-collar birth in Pittsburgh to his world-wide fame. This factual yet funny adaptation is a child-friendly introduction to Andy Warhol and his modern-art contemporaries, including Robert Rauschenberg, Jasper Johns, Claes Oldenburg and Roy Lichtenstein. The artist's evolution from painter and sculptor to filmmaker and superstar is discussed with music, contemporary photographs, and art reproductions ...adding just enough silliness to hold your interest.

1404

Getting to Know the World's Greatest Artists: Mary Cassatt

22 minutes, produced 2008 by Getting to Know, DVD format

Mary Cassatt was an American painter who spent most of her adult life in France among other notable French Impressionist painters Degas and Monet. She is known for her images of the social and private lives of women and especially famous for her tender portraits of mothers and their children. In this film about Mary Cassatt, viewers of all ages will enjoy a combination of fine art and cartoon fun. Why didn't Mary's father want her to become an artist? What turned Mary and her friend Edgar Degas into "mad scientists"? What made her huge World's Fair mural so mysterious? You will find out as you laugh and learn with one of the world's best-loved artists. The humorous cartoon animation lightens the mood and makes the film appealing to a young audience. Mary Cassatt shares the story of her life growing up as an artist, how she developed her style and captured her subject matter, and how she became famous through her work.
